U. N. Assembly Awaits Bevin's Policy Speech

No Announcement Whether He'll Touch On Berlin Situation

PARIS, Sept. 26 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin is expected to make Britain's policy speech to the United Nations General Assembly tomorrow when the 58-nation group reconvenes in the shadow of the Berlin crisis.

There was no announcement whether Bevin would touch on the Berlin situation, which has been referred to the Security Council by the Western Powers. If he does, his words may set the pattern of the western strategy.

It was assumed that Bevin would make some reply to the Russian demand for a one-third slash in the armed forces of the five great powers.

Debate May Wind Up Tuesday

Assembly President Herbert V. Evatt, of Australia, hopes to wind up general debate by Tuesday night. This would enable the six main 58-nation committees to get started on the 69-item calendar on Wednesday. All committee decisions eventually must go back to the floor of the Assembly for final approval.

The United States, Russia and China already have spoken in the general debate along with a group of small nations. There still was no announcement when France would speak. It also was presumed that all of Russia's satellites would go to the rostrum to deliver tirades against the West. White Russia, the Soviet Ukraine, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia so far have remained silent but Poland leveled the usual accusations against the Western Powers.

Evatt has taken every opportunity to push along the work program. One of the six committees—that on the United Nations budget—held a preliminary session yesterday while Vishinsky was speaking.

Berlin Issue Tightens Schedule

Original etimates of the length of the Assembly session ran up to Christmas. The Assembly now is ahead of schedule, but with the Berlin situation dumped into the lap of Security Council, the schedule will be tighter. Some Assembly sessions may have to be delayed to make way for council meetings.

"I charge," said Wallace, "that the course set by Marshall and Dulles, the course agreed on by Truman and Dewey, is working towards the speedy destruction of the United Nations."

Reiterates America United; Truman Has Relatively Easy Day

[By The Associated Press]

Thomas E. Dewey seized on Sunday's break in the mounting heat of the presidential campaign to assure the world that America is united on the Paris peace front.

And the GOP nominee, relaxing in San Francisco before pushing into Oregon today, called for peace prayers in the face of the "grave crisis in Berlin."

His Democratic adversary, President Truman, took it relatively easy in Texas after a huge breakfast at the Uvalde home of former Vice President John N. Garner. Mr. Truman went to the First Baptist Church at San Antonio, had conferences with party regulars, and took no notice of a challenge for southern talks on civil rights subjects. This came in a telegram from J. Strom Thurmond, States Rights candidate for President.

President Truman dropped a penny in a wishing well and then stood before the famed Alamo to say his one ambition "is to see a peaceful, happy world."

"If that can't be accomplished," he told a crowd of cheering Texans, "there is nothing else worth while."

U. S. United, Dewey Reiterates

The New York Governor, who has kept in touch with the Paris sessions on the Berlin situation, issued a statement that reiterated a unity of Americans despite the recriminations of a presidential election battle.

"We stand together," Dewey said, "to strengthen the hands of those who speak and work for us and for the cause of peace in Paris."

Our delegation there "is bipartisan and represents a united America," he emphasized.

He urged "our own people and men and women of every land who share our aims to unite our prayers for peace."

Gov. and Mrs. Dewey went to Grace Episcopal Church in San Francisco at the close of his first full week of his campaign tour that now takes him to the Pacific Northwest where he speaks today in Portland, Ore., Tacoma and Seattle, Wash.

An audience of nearly 9,000 heard Dewey declare at San Francisco Saturday night that the Truman administration had "blundered nd fumbled" in trying to bring down prices.

Garner Host To Truman

"We do not have to follow the unsound and defeatist policies of an administration that has got us into the mess we are in," the candidate said. He urged a huge increase in production as he outlined his anti-inflation proposals.

He drew the biggest applause when he called for firing speculators from government posts.

At Uvalde, Texas, an estimated 3,500 persons met Mr. Truman's special train as he followed a three-day trial through Texas. And 2,000 were figured to have followed his car to the Garner home where Mr. Truman ate "the biggest breakfast in 40 years." The President and Mrs. Truman thanked the crowd on the Garner lawn for the welcome.

The President works his way to Fort Worth and Dallas today and on into Oklahoma where his next major talk is billed for Oklahoma City tomorrow.

Legislature Votes To Open Louisiana Ballot To Truman

President Could Not Be Called Democrat

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 26 (AP)—The Louisiana Legislature today voted to admit President Truman's name to the state general election ballot — without letting him be called officially a Democrat.

The State Senate unanimously passed, with only technical amendments, a bill revising the state general election law to allow the President to be nominated by petition. The Democratic State Central Committee dropped his name from the ballot September 10 by officially endorsing the nominees of the States' Rights Democrats.

The bill was then returned to the House of Representatives for concurrence later tonight in the Senate's technical changes before going to Gov. Earl K. Long for signature.

No Rooster For Truman

The State Central Committee voted to pledge its elector candidates to he States Rights Democratic ticket of Gov. S. J. Strom Thurmond, of South Carolina, and Fielding L. Wright, of Mississippi. The move barred Mr. Truman from the Louisiana ballot since the deadline for nominating by petition had already passed under the election law in effect then.

Gov. Long called the Legislature into special session last Wednesday night and submitted it to the measure permitting the President's name on the ballot. An amendment making it mandatory that Louisiana residents qualify the President is the only change from the original proposal.

Democratic candidates for state and local offices who were nominated in the August 31 primary will be listed under both the Truman-Barkley and the Thurmond-Wright columns. The rooster, traditional Louisiana Democratic Party emblem, will mark the Thurmond-Wright column.

The measure also bars the Tru-

Wallace Workers Beaten, Ridden Out Of Town

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 26 (AP) — Five workers for Henry Wallace's Progressive Party reported tonight they were dragged from their headquarters here, slapped and beaten and dumped at Grovetown, a small place outside the city.

They told police that between 40 and 50 men in a dozen automobiles descended upon their headquarters in a private home late today, kicked in a window and door and rode them out of the city.

One of the five, Forbes Hill, 23, displayed a blackened eye and bruises on the face he said he received. The other four were women, two of whom said they were slapped and cuffed.

Lt. M. C. Watkins, to whom they made their complaints, said he and other officers were investigating. He added that the investigators had no direct information as to who were responsible.

"Evacuation of American families from Berlin" was the headline.

Bizarre Twists Added To "Date" Killings Case

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 26 (AP)—As new, bizarre twists were added to Anne Arundel County's "date" killings case today, Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., conferred with top state law enforcement officials about means of solving it.

During the three-hour meeting in the executive mansion, it was decided that all resources of the state and Baltimore City police forces would be thrown in to help county authorities seek a solution to the killings of Miss Mary C. Kline, 18-year-old typist, and her escort, John H. Mahlan, 25.

The Glen Burnie couple left Mary's home about 9 p. m., September 17. Their bloodstained automobile was found near Glen Burnie the next morning. Last Monday, their bodies were found beside a dead-end lane near here. Both had been shot through the head.

Since then, dozens of persons have been questioned and scores of leads have collapsed. A total of $4,400 in rewards has been offered for the arrest and conviction of the killer or killers.

Meanwhile, Baltimore City police announced the arrest of seven youths on charges of breaking into the Baltimore City morgue last Tuesday night. The bodies of Miss Kline and Mahlan were there at that time.

With the arrests, police recovered several pictures of Miss Kline's body.

All were questioned about the killings.

Aged King Gustaf Attends Ceremony.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 26 (AP)—To the beat of muffled drums and in the glare of flaming torches Sweden paid final tribute today to Count Folke Bernadotte, the assassinated Palestine mediator.

Last rites were held in Gustav Vasa Church in the presence of the aged King Gustaf V, foreign diplomats and representatives of the United Nations.

After the church services, 40 Boy Scouts drew the coffin on an open catafalque wagon to the Northern Cemetery. Throngs of silent, mourning Swedes watched.

Ceremony Held At Cemetery

The next of kin, including Bernadotte's American-born widow, Esther Manville, and members of Swedish and foreign royal families in big limousines, headed thousands of marching Red Cross officers and nurses, Girl and Boy Scouts.

Burning torches in the hands of 400 Girl Scouts saulted the procession at the entrance to the cemetery. They formed a double line up to the crematory.

There the Boy Scouts passed by the coffin while their tattoo was sung: "The day is done, dusk is falling over forest, over mountain, over sea. All is quiet, rest in peace. God is near."

A short simple ceremony was held in the crematory for the family. Later the urn with Bernadotte's ashes will be deposited in the family grave beside the remains of his mother, two sons and his sister.

Thousands Line Route

Thousands of his sorrowing countrymen lined the way of the funeral procession from Bernadotte's home on the outskirts of the capital to Gustav Vasa Church.

The funeral oration was delivered by Curate F. Dahlby, a leading Boy Scout executive in Sweden, long associated with Bernadotte.

He chose his text from the Hebrew prophet, Isaiah, Chapter Six, Verse Eight: "Also I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, here am I; send me."

Curate Dahlby referred to the thousands of concentration camp prisoners Bernadotte saved from death, his service to the Red Cross and as mediator in the United Nations.

FLORENCE, Italy, Sept. 26—(AP)—A racing car making a turn at more than 100 miles an hour jumped a fence today and killed seven spectators. Eighteen others were injured. The steering gear jammed on the racer, a Fiat driven by Asquino Ermini, of Italy. He suffered only minor injuries.

18 Berliners Die When Roof Of Theatre Falls

32 Others Injured; Heavy Rains, Winds Blamed For Cave-In

BERLIN, Sept. 26 (INS)—A roof cave-in brought sudden death tonight to 18 persons and injuries to 32 others among an audience of 400 Berliners watching a movie at a theater in the American zone.

The victims were crushed by heavy debris or trampled under the feet of those trying to flee the crash of part of the roof of the Famlet Theater.

The entire audience save those felled by debris frantically lunged for the theater's single emergency exit.

An earlier report that 12 persons in addition to the 18 killed still were trapped in the debris proved unfounded after a thorough police search of the wreckage.

Eyewitness accounts of the disaster told of the horror and panic that engulfed the audience as the first big timbers and plaster started falling.

Sees People Trampled

Erika Konrath, who saw the accident said:

"The audience stormed a single emergency exit.

"I saw several people trampled. I am certain almost as many people were killed by trampling as by the falling debris.

Another eyewitness, Usherette Edith Hoppe, said:

"I heard an awful roar. I turned around and saw the plaster and timbers falling.

"It reminded me of the wartime bombings."

By strange coincidence, the roof of an apartment building 450 feet from the theater collapsed soon after the theater roof caved in but there were no immediate reports of casualties in the second incident.

Rains, Winds Blamed

Eighty of the 400 men, women and children in the audience of the Pamlet Theater sat directly under that part of the roof which collapsed.

The management of the theater, which had been bombed out during the war, recently ordered an emergency roof for the building. It was a five-square-yard part of this temporary covering that caved in, showering death on the audience.

Investigating authorities said rains and high winds were responsible for both cave-ins. Heavy timbers supporting the emergency theater roof gave way and crashed through the ceiling below.

Stunt Flier Loses After He Cheated Death 33 Years

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 26 (AP)—Stunt Flier Dick Powell, who cheated death for 33 years, lost his gamble today as his wife and 5,000 spectators looked on.

The 46-year-old Waukesha, Wis., daredevil plunged to his death when he slipped from the wing of a biplane during an air show at the nearby Hales Corners airport.

Powell previously attempted one of his specialty stunts — transferring from one plane to another by means of a rope ladder at 500 feet of altitude. He failed three times to make contact, and then shouted to his pilot that he would "try something else."

He crawled out on a wing, hooked his feet in the guy wires and lowered his body so that he hung head down—another of his specialty acts. A few moments later the horrified crowd saw him plummet to the ground.

World Bank, Fund Governors Gather

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP) — High ranking finance men from 47 governments began gathering here today for the third annual meetings of the World Bank and World Monetary Fund.

The meetings began tomorrow and are to continue through Friday, with inflation a key subject.

The two organizations were created, in the broad sense, to prevent economic warfare between nations, thus supplementing efforts of the United Nations to prevent "shooting" wars.

Russia, a mighty factor in the United Nations, does not belong to either the bank or the fund, although the Soviet took part in the wartime movement to organize them. Some Russian satellite countries are members, however.

Governors representing each member country on the boards of the bank and fund are, in many instances, the finance ministers of their countries, as in the case of United States Secretary of the Treasury Snyder. Some head the central banks of their countries.

Governors for the major foreign countries at the meeting include China's finance minister, Yun-wu Wang, who is chairman of the two boards; Sir Stafford Cripps, of Britain, vice chairman; Pierre Mendes-France, of France, and Sir Chintaman Dshmukh, of India.

Inflation, a postwar economic menace the world over, is expected to be a focus of attention at the meetings, especially in the case of the fund, which has currency stabilization among its purposes.

$500,000 In Smuggled Gold, Diamonds Seized

SINGAPORE, Sept. 26—(AP)—Customs officers said they seized $500,000 in smuggled gold and diamonds today from a Dutch flight engineer on a KLM plane which arrived at Kallang airdrome from Java.

Police said they believed the haul smashed a large scale ring formed to smuggle gold and diamonds from Java to Singapore.

The authorities said the smuggler tried to bribe the customs officers with an offer of $20,000. A KLM spokesman identified him as a Swiss national who had long been an Australian resident before he was based at Batavia by the airline.

Russians Accused Of Using Force And Duress In Attempt To Dislodge West From City

Moscow "Reneged" On Agreement, Note To Kremlin States

PARIS, Monday, Sept. 27, (AP)—The United States, Britain and France broke off negotiations with Russia last night over blockaded Berlin and referred the issue to the United Nations as a threat to peace.

The Russians had demanded control over the Allied airlift, a single Russian-controlled currency for Berlin and four-power control of Berlin's trade as their price for lifting the blockade imposed 100 days ago.

Foreign ministers of the Western Powers accused the Soviets of threatening world peace in the former German capital by the use of force and duress to dislodge the Western Allies.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall, of the United States, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman met twice at the French Foreign Ministry and drafted a 14-point message to the Kremlin.

By this action, they called off direct negotiations begun with the Russians last July under Article 33 of the United Nations charter.

A note to Trygve Lie, Secretary General of the United Nations formally submitting the Berlin crisis to the Security Council is to be written and sent today.

Agreements Nullified

The Western Powers accused Russia of using force and duress to seize complete control of Berlin—which lies deep in the Russian occupation zone—and incorporate the city into the Soviet sector.

They declared force was used through Berlin Communists in attempts to overthrow the legally elected government of Berlin. They said it was duress to blockade the city.

The three-power note was delivered at midnight to Russian Ambassador Alexander Bogomolov in Paris. It reviewed the history of East-West negotiations on Berlin beginning in July in the Kremlin.

The note declared that agreement

Western Powers Risking Russian Walkout Or Veto

Most Severe Strain Yet Placed On U. N.

PARIS, Monday, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Western Powers were reported today deliberately risking a Russian walkout or veto in taking the Berlin crisis to the United Nations Security Council.

Regardless of Western Power action, some United Nations informants say the best of the United States, Britain and France can do now is to lay the record of the Berlin blockade before the world from the council forum.

The Western Powers charged Russia with creating a situation threatening international peace and security.

Delegates here agreed that their decision to place the case before the Security Council placed the most severe strain yet on the United Nations. An informant who has been close to the involved talks with the Soviet Union said the Western Powers checked every possible Russian reaction before deciding to go to the Security Council.

Will Make Record Clear

He said the Western Powers know they might face a Russian walkout or perhaps a veto. They felt, however, they had to go ahead with the case to make the record clear to the world and let the Security Council decide what could be done to lift the Berlin blockade.

Russia walked out of the Security Council once before in the Iran case. The council had voted over Soviet protests to hear charges that Russia interferred in Iranian affairs. The boycott lasted two weeks.

Secretary of State Marshall, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman are to meet today to draw up their formal note to the Security Council lodging charges against Russia. It is planned to send the note immediately to the United Nations.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, of Britain, is council president this month. United Nations circles speculated the council would be called into session on the case before the week is out.

Neutral Country To Preside

An informed source said the United States and Britain have decided to step out of the council presidency this month and in October when the Berlin issue is being heard. They are parties to the dispute and were said to favor a neutral country presiding. Argentina

Senators To Air Charges Education Office Gagged

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP) — Charges that the United States Office of Education had been muzzled in an effort to attack Communism through the schools will be aired Monday before a Senate group.

John W. Studebaker, who resigned July 1 after 14 years as Commissioner of Education, apparently will have a chance to repeat his accusations in a face to face meeting with the man whose office he has said was responsible—Oscar Ewing, Federal Security Administrator.

Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich), of the Senate Investigating Subcommittee, called the session after Ewing denied Studebaker's charges and asked for an opportunity to reply to the "vicious attack upon me."

Studebaker said in a public letter to Ewing last month that a Ewing aide had rejected a speech by an education office official prepared for a meeting of school principals on teaching in high school the evils of Communism. The Ewing assistant advised that such matters should be left to the State Department and the FBI, Studebaker said.

He also contended that a Ewing staff member had tried to get Studebaker to tone down a statement concerning "enemies of American democracy." He also accused Ewing of poor administration. The education office is one of several agencies under Ewing's FSA.

Ewing called it a "vicious attack" and said that it contained "untruths and deliberately misleading statements." He went on to describe the Studebaker letter as "compounded of pure poppycock and irrelevant and irresponsible innenuendo."

"It doesn't require a sensitive nose to detect an aroma of politics," Ewing said.

No Announcement Whether He'll Touch On Berlin Situation

PARIS, Sept. 26 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin is expected to make Britain's policy speech to the United Nations General Assembly tomorrow when the 58-nation group reconvenes in the shadow of the Berlin crisis.

There was no announcement whether Bevin would touch on the Berlin situation, which has been referred to the Security Council by the Western Powers. If he does, his words may set the pattern of the western strategy.

It was assumed that Bevin would make some reply to the Russian demand for a one-third slash in the armed forces of the five great powers.

Debate May Wind Up Tuesday

Assembly President Herbert V. Evatt, of Australia, hopes to wind up general debate by Tuesday night. This would enable the six main 58-nation committees to get started on the 69-item calendar on Wednesday. All committee decisions eventually must go back to the floor of the Assembly for final approval.

The United States, Russia and China already have spoken in the general debate along with a group of small nations. There still was no announcement when France would speak. It also was presumed that all of Russia's satellites would go to the rostrum to deliver tirades against the West. White Russia, the Soviet Ukraine, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia so far have remained silent but Poland leveled the usual accusations against the Western Powers.

Evatt has taken every opportunity to push along the work program. One of the six committees—that on the United Nations budget—held a preliminary session yesterday while Vishinsky was speaking.

Berlin Issue Tightens Schedule

Original etimates of the length of the Assembly session ran up to Christmas. The Assembly now is ahead of schedule, but with the Berlin situation dumped into the lap of Security Council, the schedule will be tighter. Some Assembly sessions may have to be delayed to make way for council meetings.

Reiterates America United; Truman Has Relatively Easy Day

[By The Associated Press]

Thomas E. Dewey seized on Sunday's break in the mounting heat of the presidential campaign to assure the world that America is united on the Paris peace front.

And the GOP nominee, relaxing in San Francisco before pushing into Oregon today, called for peace prayers in the face of the "grave crisis in Berlin."

His Democratic adversary, President Truman, took it relatively easy in Texas after a huge breakfast at the Uvalde home of former Vice President John N. Garner. Mr. Truman went to the First Baptist Church at San Antonio, had conferences with party regulars, and took no notice of a challenge for southern talks on civil rights subjects. This came in a telegram from J. Strom Thurmond, States Rights candidate for President.

President Truman dropped a penny in a wishing well and then stood before the famed Alamo to say his one ambition "is to see a peaceful, happy world."

"If that can't be accomplished," he told a crowd of cheering Texans, "there is nothing else worth while."

U. S. United, Dewey Reiterates

The New York Governor, who has kept in touch with the Paris sessions on the Berlin situation, issued a statement that reiterated a unity of Americans despite the recriminations of a presidential election battle.

"We stand together," Dewey said, "to strengthen the hands of those who speak and work for us and for the cause of peace in Paris."

Our delegation there "is bipartisan and represents a united America," he emphasized.

He urged "our own people and men and women of every land who share our aims to unite our prayers for peace."

Gov. and Mrs. Dewey went to Grace Episcopal Church in San Francisco at the close of his first full week of his campaign tour that now takes him to the Pacific Northwest where he speaks today in Portland, Ore., Tacoma and Seattle, Wash.

An audience of nearly 9,000 heard Dewey declare at San Francisco Saturday night that the Truman administration had "blundered nd fumbled" in trying to bring down prices.

Garner Host To Truman

"We do not have to follow the unsound and defeatist policies of an administration that has got us into the mess we are in," the candidate said. He urged a huge increase in production as he outlined his anti-inflation proposals.

He drew the biggest applause when he called for firing speculators from government posts.

At Uvalde, Texas, an estimated 3,500 persons met Mr. Truman's special train as he followed a three-day trial through Texas. And 2,000 were figured to have followed his car to the Garner home where Mr. Truman ate "the biggest breakfast in 40 years." The President and Mrs. Truman thanked the crowd on the Garner lawn for the welcome.

President Could Not Be Called Democrat

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 26 (AP)—The Louisiana Legislature today voted to admit President Truman's name to the state general election ballot — without letting him be called officially a Democrat.

The State Senate unanimously passed, with only technical amendments, a bill revising the state general election law to allow the President to be nominated by petition. The Democratic State Central Committee dropped his name from the ballot September 10 by officially endorsing the nominees of the States' Rights Democrats.

The bill was then returned to the House of Representatives for concurrence later tonight in the Senate's technical changes before going to Gov. Earl K. Long for signature.

No Rooster For Truman

The State Central Committee voted to pledge its elector candidates to he States Rights Democratic ticket of Gov. S. J. Strom Thurmond, of South Carolina, and Fielding L. Wright, of Mississippi. The move barred Mr. Truman from the Louisiana ballot since the deadline for nominating by petition had already passed under the election law in effect then.

Gov. Long called the Legislature into special session last Wednesday night and submitted it to the measure permitting the President's name on the ballot. An amendment making it mandatory that Louisiana residents qualify the President is the only change from the original proposal.

Democratic candidates for state and local offices who were nominated in the August 31 primary will be listed under both the Truman-Barkley and the Thurmond-Wright columns. The rooster, traditional Louisiana Democratic Party emblem, will mark the Thurmond-Wright column.

The measure also bars the Tru-

Wallace Workers Beaten, Ridden Out Of Town

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 26 (AP) — Five workers for Henry Wallace's Progressive Party reported tonight they were dragged from their headquarters here, slapped and beaten and dumped at Grovetown, a small place outside the city.

They told police that between 40 and 50 men in a dozen automobiles descended upon their headquarters in a private home late today, kicked in a window and door and rode them out of the city.

One of the five, Forbes Hill, 23, displayed a blackened eye and bruises on the face he said he received. The other four were women, two of whom said they were slapped and cuffed.

Lt. M. C. Watkins, to whom they made their complaints, said he and other officers were investigating. He added that the investigators had no direct information as to who were responsible.

Americans Are Leaving Berlin, Soviets Report

MOSCOW, Sept. 26—(AP)—Soviet newspapers published today a Tass dispatch from Berlin saying Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the American military governor, had revealed that the number of American dependents in Berlin had been reduced from 2,600 to 1,100 in the last six months.

"Evacuation of American families from Berlin" was the headline.

Bizarre Twists Added To "Date" Killings Case

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 26 (AP)—As new, bizarre twists were added to Anne Arundel County's "date" killings case today, Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., conferred with top state law enforcement officials about means of solving it.

During the three-hour meeting in the executive mansion, it was decided that all resources of the state and Baltimore City police forces would be thrown in to help county authorities seek a solution to the killings of Miss Mary C. Kline, 18-year-old typist, and her escort, John H. Mahlan, 25.

The Glen Burnie couple left Mary's home about 9 p. m., September 17. Their bloodstained automobile was found near Glen Burnie the next morning. Last Monday, their bodies were found beside a dead-end lane near here. Both had been shot through the head.

Since then, dozens of persons have been questioned and scores of leads have collapsed. A total of $4,400 in rewards has been offered for the arrest and conviction of the killer or killers.

Meanwhile, Baltimore City police announced the arrest of seven youths on charges of breaking into the Baltimore City morgue last Tuesday night. The bodies of Miss Kline and Mahlan were there at that time.

With the arrests, police recovered several pictures of Miss Kline's body.

All were questioned about the killings.

Aged King Gustaf Attends Ceremony.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 26 (AP)—To the beat of muffled drums and in the glare of flaming torches Sweden paid final tribute today to Count Folke Bernadotte, the assassinated Palestine mediator.

Last rites were held in Gustav Vasa Church in the presence of the aged King Gustaf V, foreign diplomats and representatives of the United Nations.

After the church services, 40 Boy Scouts drew the coffin on an open catafalque wagon to the Northern Cemetery. Throngs of silent, mourning Swedes watched.

Ceremony Held At Cemetery

The next of kin, including Bernadotte's American-born widow, Esther Manville, and members of Swedish and foreign royal families in big limousines, headed thousands of marching Red Cross officers and nurses, Girl and Boy Scouts.

Burning torches in the hands of 400 Girl Scouts saulted the procession at the entrance to the cemetery. They formed a double line up to the crematory.

There the Boy Scouts passed by the coffin while their tattoo was sung: "The day is done, dusk is falling over forest, over mountain, over sea. All is quiet, rest in peace. God is near."

A short simple ceremony was held in the crematory for the family. Later the urn with Bernadotte's ashes will be deposited in the family grave beside the remains of his mother, two sons and his sister.

Thousands Line Route

Thousands of his sorrowing countrymen lined the way of the funeral procession from Bernadotte's home on the outskirts of the capital to Gustav Vasa Church.

The funeral oration was delivered by Curate F. Dahlby, a leading Boy Scout executive in Sweden, long associated with Bernadotte.

He chose his text from the Hebrew prophet, Isaiah, Chapter Six, Verse Eight: "Also I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, here am I; send me."

Curate Dahlby referred to the thousands of concentration camp prisoners Bernadotte saved from death, his service to the Red Cross and as mediator in the United Nations.

18 Berliners Die When Roof Of Theatre Falls

Stunt Flier Loses After He Cheated Death 33 Years

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 26 (AP)—Stunt Flier Dick Powell, who cheated death for 33 years, lost his gamble today as his wife and 5,000 spectators looked on.

The 46-year-old Waukesha, Wis., daredevil plunged to his death when he slipped from the wing of a biplane during an air show at the nearby Hales Corners airport.

Powell previously attempted one of his specialty stunts — transferring from one plane to another by means of a rope ladder at 500 feet of altitude. He failed three times to make contact, and then shouted to his pilot that he would "try something else."

He crawled out on a wing, hooked his feet in the guy wires and lowered his body so that he hung head down—another of his specialty acts. A few moments later the horrified crowd saw him plummet to the ground.

World Bank, Fund Governors Gather

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP) — High ranking finance men from 47 governments began gathering here today for the third annual meetings of the World Bank and World Monetary Fund.

The meetings began tomorrow and are to continue through Friday, with inflation a key subject.

The two organizations were created, in the broad sense, to prevent economic warfare between nations, thus supplementing efforts of the United Nations to prevent "shooting" wars.

Russia, a mighty factor in the United Nations, does not belong to either the bank or the fund, although the Soviet took part in the wartime movement to organize them. Some Russian satellite countries are members, however.

Governors representing each member country on the boards of the bank and fund are, in many instances, the finance ministers of their countries, as in the case of United States Secretary of the Treasury Snyder. Some head the central banks of their countries.

Governors for the major foreign countries at the meeting include China's finance minister, Yun-wu Wang, who is chairman of the two boards; Sir Stafford Cripps, of Britain, vice chairman; Pierre Mendes-France, of France, and Sir Chintaman Dshmukh, of India.

Inflation, a postwar economic menace the world over, is expected to be a focus of attention at the meetings, especially in the case of the fund, which has currency stabilization among its purposes.

32 Others Injured; Heavy Rains, Winds Blamed For Cave-In

BERLIN, Sept. 26 (INS)—A roof cave-in brought sudden death tonight to 18 persons and injuries to 32 others among an audience of 400 Berliners watching a movie at a theater in the American zone.

The victims were crushed by heavy debris or trampled under the feet of those trying to flee the crash of part of the roof of the Famlet Theater.

The entire audience save those felled by debris frantically lunged for the theater's single emergency exit.

An earlier report that 12 persons in addition to the 18 killed still were trapped in the debris proved unfounded after a thorough police search of the wreckage.

Eyewitness accounts of the disaster told of the horror and panic that engulfed the audience as the first big timbers and plaster started falling.

Sees People Trampled

Erika Konrath, who saw the accident said:

"The audience stormed a single emergency exit.

"I saw several people trampled. I am certain almost as many people were killed by trampling as by the falling debris.

Another eyewitness, Usherette Edith Hoppe, said:

"I heard an awful roar. I turned around and saw the plaster and timbers falling.

"It reminded me of the wartime bombings."

By strange coincidence, the roof of an apartment building 450 feet from the theater collapsed soon after the theater roof caved in but there were no immediate reports of casualties in the second incident.

Rains, Winds Blamed

Eighty of the 400 men, women and children in the audience of the Pamlet Theater sat directly under that part of the roof which collapsed.

The management of the theater, which had been bombed out during the war, recently ordered an emergency roof for the building. It was a five-square-yard part of this temporary covering that caved in, showering death on the audience.

Investigating authorities said rains and high winds were responsible for both cave-ins. Heavy timbers supporting the emergency theater roof gave way and crashed through the ceiling below.

$500,000 In Smuggled Gold, Diamonds Seized

SINGAPORE, Sept. 26—(AP)—Customs officers said they seized $500,000 in smuggled gold and diamonds today from a Dutch flight engineer on a KLM plane which arrived at Kallang airdrome from Java.

Police said they believed the haul smashed a large scale ring formed to smuggle gold and diamonds from Java to Singapore.

The authorities said the smuggler tried to bribe the customs officers with an offer of $20,000. A KLM spokesman identified him as a Swiss national who had long been an Australian resident before he was based at Batavia by the airline.

Western Powers Risking Russian Walkout Or Veto

Most Severe Strain Yet Placed On U. N.

PARIS, Monday, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Western Powers were reported today deliberately risking a Russian walkout or veto in taking the Berlin crisis to the United Nations Security Council.

Regardless of Western Power action, some United Nations informants say the best of the United States, Britain and France can do now is to lay the record of the Berlin blockade before the world from the council forum.

The Western Powers charged Russia with creating a situation threatening international peace and security.

Delegates here agreed that their decision to place the case before the Security Council placed the most severe strain yet on the United Nations. An informant who has been close to the involved talks with the Soviet Union said the Western Powers checked every possible Russian reaction before deciding to go to the Security Council.

Will Make Record Clear

He said the Western Powers know they might face a Russian walkout or perhaps a veto. They felt, however, they had to go ahead with the case to make the record clear to the world and let the Security Council decide what could be done to lift the Berlin blockade.

Russia walked out of the Security Council once before in the Iran case. The council had voted over Soviet protests to hear charges that Russia interferred in Iranian affairs. The boycott lasted two weeks.

Secretary of State Marshall, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman are to meet today to draw up their formal note to the Security Council lodging charges against Russia. It is planned to send the note immediately to the United Nations.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, of Britain, is council president this month. United Nations circles speculated the council would be called into session on the case before the week is out.

Neutral Country To Preside

An informed source said the United States and Britain have decided to step out of the council presidency this month and in October when the Berlin issue is being heard. They are parties to the dispute and were said to favor a neutral country presiding. Argentina

Moscow "Reneged" On Agreement, Note To Kremlin States

PARIS, Monday, Sept. 27. (AP)—The United States, Britain and France broke off negotiations with Russia last night over blockaded Berlin and referred the issue to the United Nations as a threat to peace.

The Russians had demanded control over the Allied airlift, a single Russian-controlled currency for Berlin and four-power control of Berlin's trade as their price for lifting the blockade imposed 100 days ago.

Foreign ministers of the Western Powers accused the Soviets of threatening world peace in the former German capital by the use of force and duress to dislodge the Western Allies.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall, of the United States, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman met twice at the French Foreign Ministry and drafted a 14-point message to the Kremlin.

By this action, they called off direct negotiations begun with the Russians last July under Article 33 of the United Nations charter.

White Paper Had Truman Aproval

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Sept. 26 — (AP) — President Truman "thoroughly approved" a joint United States-British-French white paper formally accusing Russia of threatening the peace by its blockade of Berlin.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters:

"He knew all about it and thoroughly approved our joining in it."

A note to Trygve Lie, Secretary General of the United Nations formally submitting the Berlin crisis to the Security Council is to be written and sent today.

Agreements Nullified

The Western Powers accused Russia of using force and duress to seize complete control of Berlin—which lies deep in the Russian occupation zone—and incorporate the city into the Soviet sector.

They declared force was used through Berlin Communists in attempts to overthrow the legally elected government of Berlin. They said it was duress to blockade the city.

The three-power note was delivered at midnight to Russian Ambassador Alexander Bogomolov in Paris. It reviewed the history of East-West negotiations on Berlin beginning in July in the Kremlin.

The note declared that agreement

Senators To Air Charges Education Office Gagged

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP) — Charges that the United States Office of Education had been muzzled in an effort to attack Communism through the schools will be aired Monday before a Senate group.

John W. Studebaker, who resigned July 1 after 14 years as Commissioner of Education, apparently will have a chance to repeat his accusations in a face to face meeting with the man whose office he has said was responsible—Oscar Ewing, Federal Security Administrator.

Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich), of the Senate Investigating Subcommittee, called the session after Ewing denied Studebaker's charges and asked for an opportunity to reply to the "vicious attack upon me."

Studebaker said in a public letter to Ewing last month that a Ewing aide had rejected a speech by an education office official prepared for a meeting of school principals on teaching in high school the evils of Communism. The Ewing assistant advised that such matters should be left to the State Department and the FBI, Studebaker said.

He also contended that a Ewing staff member had tried to get Studebaker to tone down a statement concerning "enemies of American democracy." He also accused Ewing of poor administration. The education office is one of several agencies under Ewing's FSA.

Ewing called it a "vicious attack" and said that it contained "untruths and deliberately misleading statements." He went on to describe the Studebaker letter as "compounded of pure poppycock and irrelevant and irresponsible innenuendo."

"It doesn't require a sensitive nose to detect an aroma of politics," Ewing said.

Bunche Keeps Lid On Uneasy Truce

HAIFA, Sept. 26 (AP)—An American negro professor is calmly keeping the lid on the Palestine truce in spite of warnings from Jewish terrorists that he is the next man marked for death.

Dr. Ralph Johnson Bunche, acting United Nations mediator since Count Folke Bernadotte's assassination nine days ago, is hard to scare.

"It was the Count's policy not to request personal protection but to leave it to the responsibility of the Jews and Arabs to determine what protection was necessary," the former Howard University political science professor said today. "That's still our policy.

"Last Wednesday when I went to Jerusalem it seemed as if half of Haganah had turned out to guard me. I never felt so safe! But I hadn't asked it."

Officially, no threatening messages have been sent directly to Bunche in recent days but he is aware of the enmity against him as the symbol of the United Nations. He said if any threats come "I'll throw them in the waste basket."

Tito General Called "Lackey" By Pravda

Pravda criticized Dapcevic for writing in the Communist newspaper Borba that Maj. Gen. Arso Jovanovic, the Yugoslav general shot while trying to flee his country, was a poor general and an enemy of Russia.

Pravda said Dapcevic was a "lackey" to Marshal Tito's Minister of the Interior Alexander Rankovic and added "if there's anything more contemptible than an executioner himself it's his lackey."

Russians Accused

reached with Prime Minister Stalin for a simultaneous end of the blockade and circulation of eastern marks in Berlin were nullified by the position of the Soviet military governor, Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky, in subsequent talks in Berlin.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall, of the United States, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman made the decision at a midafternoon session. They met again tonight and wrote a joint note to Moscow telling the Russians their stand.

Foreign Ministers Confer

Russia had demanded as a price for lifting the 99-day blockade control over the Berlin Allied airlift, as well as over rail, road and barge traffic to the city. The Soviets demanded also that only the Russian east marks circulate in the four-power city and that Berlin's trade be supervised by the four powers "including the issuing of appropriate licenses."

The foreign ministers met for 70 minutes tonight. A French Foreign Ministry official said a 14-point note had been agreed upon by the three ministers.

The decision to break off negotiations ended secret talks which had been in progress since July 30. Western diplomats talked in Moscow with Prime Minister Stalin and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov. The talks then were shifted to the four military governors of Germany in Berlin.

The Western Powers said the Kremlin agreements were nullified when the Russians demanded control over air traffic as well as rail, road and barge transport into and out of Berlin. Since the Russians blocked the land approaches, the United States and Britain have been supplying the 2,000,000 or more Germans in Western Berlin by the expensive airlift.

Breakup Of U.N. Feared

The Western Allies maintained that Russian control over the airlift operation would violate the interallied accords granting the Western Powers aerial corridors to Berlin.

Informed British officials said the joint appeal to the Security Council will invoke Article 39 of Chapter Seven of the United Nations Charter. This empowers the council to use all types of economic and diplomatic measures on up to military forces to carry through a decision.

Article 39 also authorized the council to make a provisional settlement of a dispute and to ask the parties concerned to abide by such a provisional measure.

The final and 14th section of the joint statement accused the Russians of complete responsibility for the present situation, which the Western Powers said made further direct negotiations futile.

The Western Powers served notice also they intend to maintain their positions in Berlin. They reserved the right to take such steps as might be necessary to do so.

Some of Mr. Truman's supporters were outspokenly unhappy over the President's being forced to run without Democratic designation.

Harmon told police his wife is 33 years old and weighs 125. She is five feet, five inches tall, according to her husband, and was wearing a gray jacket and green dress when last seen Friday.

Harmon told police he has been married 12 years. He denied any family trouble may have prompted his wife to leave.

Bunche Keeps Lid On Uneasy Truce

HAIFA, Sept. 26 (AP)—An American negro professor is calmly keeping the lid on the Palestine truce in spite of warnings from Jewish terrorists that he is the next man marked for death.

Dr. Ralph Johnson Bunche, acting United Nations mediator since Count Folke Bernadotte's assassination nine days ago, is hard to scare.

"It was the Count's policy not to request personal protection but to leave it to the responsibility of the Jews and Arabs to determine what protection was necessary," the former Howard University political science professor said today. "That's still our policy.

"Last Wednesday when I went to Jerusalem it seemed as if half of Haganah had turned out to guard me. I never felt so safe! But I hadn't asked it."

Officially, no threatening messages have been sent directly to Bunche in recent days but he is aware of the enmity against him as the symbol of the United Nations. He said if any threats come "I'll throw them in the waste basket."

Tito General Called "Lackey" By Pravda

Pravda criticized Dapcevic for writing in the Communist newspaper Borba that Maj. Gen. Arso Jovanovic, the Yugoslav general shot while trying to flee his country, was a poor general and an enemy of Russia.

Pravda said Dapcevic was a "lackey" to Marshal Tito's Minister of the Interior Alexander Rankovic and added "if there's anything more contemptible than an executioner himself it's his lackey."

Five College Students Killed In Plane Crash

The young men were returning to California after attending the University of Portland and Fresno, Calif., State College football game here Saturday.

All were Fresno residents.

Three of the bodies were found in the charred wreckage and the other two in the dense brush sveral hundred feet away. The plane slammed into the Southwest Portland suburban hillside a few minutes after taking off in unfavorable weather conditions.

Russians Accused

reached with Prime Minister Stalin for a simultaneous end of the blockade and circulation of eastern marks in Berlin were nullified by the position of the Soviet military governor, Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky, in subsequent talks in Berlin.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall, of the United States, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman made the decision at a midafternoon session. They met again tonight and wrote a joint note to Moscow telling the Russians their stand.

Foreign Ministers Confer

Russia had demanded as a price for lifting the 99-day blockade control over the Berlin Allied airlift, as well as over rail, road and barge traffic to the city. The Soviets demanded also that only the Russian east marks circulate in the four-power city and that Berlin's trade be supervised by the four powers "including the issuing of appropriate licenses."

The foreign ministers met for 70 minutes tonight. A French Foreign Ministry official said a 14-point note had been agreed upon by the three ministers.

The decision to break off negotiations ended secret talks which had been in progress since July 30. Western diplomats talked in Moscow with Prime Minister Stalin and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov. The talks then were shifted to the four military governors of Germany in Berlin.

The Western Powers said the Kremlin agreements were nullified when the Russians demanded control over air traffic as well as rail, road and barge transport into and out of Berlin. Since the Russians blocked the land approaches, the United States and Britain have been supplying the 2,000,000 or more Germans in Western Berlin by the expensive airlift.

Breakup Of U.N. Feared

The Western Allies maintained that Russian control over the airlift operation would violate the interallied accords granting the Western Powers aerial corridors to Berlin.

Informed British officials said the joint appeal to the Security Council will invoke Article 39 of Chapter Seven of the United Nations Charter. This empowers the council to use all types of economic and diplomatic measures on up to military forces to carry through a decision.

Article 39 also authorized the council to make a provisional settlement of a dispute and to ask the parties concerned to abide by such a provisional measure.

The final and 14th section of the joint statement accused the Russians of complete responsibility for the present situation, which the Western Powers said made further direct negotiations futile.

The Western Powers served notice also they intend to maintain their positions in Berlin. They reserved the right to take such steps as might be necessary to do so.

"This is the election bill that would allow Truman and Barkley to be nominated by petition of 100 voters, but not as Democratic candidates, and would provide for listing the Democratic candidates on the ballot."

Some of Mr. Truman's supporters were outspokenly unhappy over the President's being forced to run without Democratic designation.

Harlan Harmon's Wife Is Missing

Harlan G. Harmon, Locust Grove, who Governor Lane declined to return to Ohio to face charges of escaping from a state reformatory, last night asked City Police to find his wife, who has been missing from her home since noon Friday.

Police quoted the 32-year-old grocer, who battled extradition proceedings in Maryland courts, as saying his wife had no apparent reason for leaving home and he added she has never done so before without saying where she was going.

Harmon told police his wife is 33 years old and weighs 125. She is five feet, five inches tall, according to her husband, and was wearing a gray jacket and green dress when last seen Friday.

Harmon told police he has been married 12 years. He denied any family trouble may have prompted his wife to leave.

They just don't understand you. Sometimes kidding gets under your skin, and you're sure they were disguising some cutting cracks with a laugh. It sends you into the blues for days and no matter how quiet you are, how sulky your attitude, no one takes the time to apologize and coax you to smile.

Kidding is a great American custom and joking is part of any teen-ager's makeup. There just aren't any ulterior meanings in the chit-chat that's tossed around when the guys and gals are in a good mood. Now and then that cheerful sparring might develop into more than a contest to see who can draw the most howls, and an intentionally cruel remark thrown in, but it's rare.

You want to be in the center of the circle and give and take with the rest of them. Instead, you always seem to be on the fringes of the group. A word comes your way occasionally, but you don't feel as though the gang couldn't have as good a time without you. Maybe that's why you take the kidding that comes your way as meant to make you uncomfortable. You've got the wrong idea, and unless you turn over a new leaf by switching your attention away from yourself you may have good reason to believe that the rest are "picking on you."

People love to exercise their wit on someone who's an easy target. They pick a fellow or girl who'll take everything that comes his way but who has a comeback. You don't have to ruffle your feathers and decide the world's against you because you're the butt of a current joke. The most-in-demand member of the crowd is the lad or lass who can take humor with a grin and pop right back with another laughing remark.

If you expect someone to take time out to explain that it's all in fun and to please wipe that long look off your face, you're out of luck. It's every man for himself and you're old enough to be on your own with people. It's the same way with teasing. Ignore it and they'll begin searching for a victim who'll let it bother and annoy him. The reaction is what counts, and if yours is a laugh you're on the right side.

Anyway, it's better than being passed over entirely and getting as much attention as though your chair were empty. It's not hard to switch your ideas about humor around. Once you join the game, you'll discover that your suspicion that you were the "goat" was all out of focus. Learn to laugh with them --and the laugh won't be on you.

They just don't understand you. Sometimes kidding gets under your skin, and you're sure they were disguising some cutting cracks with a laugh. It sends you into the blues for days and no matter how quiet you are, how sulky your attitude, no one takes the time to apologize and coax you to smile.

Kidding is a great American custom and joking is part of any teen-ager's makeup. There just aren't any ulterior meanings in the chit-chat that's tossed around when the guys and gals are in a good mood. Now and then that cheerful sparring might develop into more than a contest to see who can draw the most howls, and an intentionally cruel remark thrown in, but it's rare.

You want to be in the center of the circle and give and take with the rest of them. Instead, you always seem to be on the fringes of the group. A word comes your way occasionally, but you don't feel as though the gang couldn't have as good a time without you. Maybe that's why you take the kidding that comes your way as meant to make you uncomfortable. You've got the wrong idea, and unless you turn over a new leaf by switching your attention away from yourself you may have good reason to believe that the rest are "picking on you."

People love to exercise their wit on someone who's an easy target. They pick a fellow or girl who'll take everything that comes his way but who has a comeback. You don't have to ruffle your feathers and decide the world's against you because you're the butt of a current joke. The most-in-demand member of the crowd is the lad or lass who can take humor with a grin and pop right back with another laughing remark.

If you expect someone to take time out to explain that it's all in fun and to please wipe that long look off your face, you're out of luck. It's every man for himself and you're old enough to be on your own with people. It's the same way with teasing. Ignore it and they'll begin searching for a victim who'll let it bother and annoy him. The reaction is what counts, and if yours is a laugh you're on the right side.

Anyway, it's better than being passed over entirely and getting as much attention as though your chair were empty. It's not hard to switch your ideas about humor around. Once you join the game, you'll discover that your suspicion that you were the "goat" was all out of focus. Learn to laugh with them --and the laugh won't be on you.

Can Cumberland Ever Hope To See Such A Day?

The City of Pittsburgh is getting a high-priced facial, now that it's got the smoke out of its eyes, the Associated Press said in a dispatch several days ago. Convinced that smoke control is there to stay, property owners have started a building cleaning program that already has cost nearly a $1,000,000. It has transformed the fabulous Golden Triangle business district into a striking checkerboard, with freshly scrubbed buildings standing sharp contrast beside grimy neighbors as steam and scrubbing teams reveal undreamed-of beauty in downtown facades that had been hidden for years by the constant accumulation of smoke and soot.

The story goes on to point out that Pennsylvania Station was the scene of a startling metamorphosis. The pinkish-buff surface of brick and terra cotta, that for nearly fifty years people of Pittsburgh had come to believe were black bricks, so heavily were they covered with soot, has been uncovered.

This facial operation has been inaugurated by a heavily backed civic organization, which has for its goal a cleaner city. To emphasize that they have every confidence in the ability of the smoke-abatement officials to keep smoke out of the city, members of the organization remodeled a condemned, soot-blackened, two-story building into a modern headquarters and, above all things, painted the structure snow white with sky blue trimming.

All this is the first fruit to be born of the smoke-control program. Thousands of Pittsburgh homeowners are now behind the endeavors since they were enjoined by law from using "high volatile fuels." It meant that they had to learn how to stoke their furnaces with cleaner-burning coal. The undertaking was not without grumblings because, until the nack of using such fuel had been conquered, it was difficult to keep it burning. Stiff fines had to be imposed on the die-hards who persisted in using the other type of coal.

Now industry is changing over. Of the city's three major railroad yards, two have converted to Diesel locomotives. The third expects its orders for similar equipment to be filled this Fall. The Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation is spending $4,500,000 to modernize its boilers. The company which heats many of the largest office buildings in downtown Pittsburgh, is installing $600,000 worth of electronic dust precipitators in its huge stacks. (Cumberland industries take notice.)

As proof that the smoke-control program is succeeding, the United States Weather Bureau reports downtown visibility 68 per cent better than a year ago. Further, last Winter Pittsburgh didn't see a one of its famous "midnight-at-noon" days—when soot-filled clouds blackened out the sun and lunch-hour traffic picked its way along by street light. The success which has marked Pittsburgh's efforts is attracting attention of more than a hundred cities which have written to learn how they, too, can have a smoke-free city. As the writer of the Associated Press story observes, "That old wheeze. 'came clean from Pittsburgh,' may have been one of the jokes that killed vaudeville. Now smoke control has killed the joke."

Of course, Cumberland's conditions cannot be compared to Pittsburgh's, but the people of the city are wondering if the time will come when business firms shall feel that effort and money will not be wasted in following the Steel City's example of washing away the grime and soot from its downtown structures. Will that time come, Mr. Director of Smoke Control?

Decline In Savings Being Closely Watched

National statistics show that the rate of savings by the American people is turning downward. Savings banks report a drop in their deposits for the first time since prewar years. There had been for seven years the sharpest rise in savings in all history.

The reason for this has not been analyzed. No one can be sure people are drawing on their savings for current living expenses. They could be buying homes or converting savings into durable goods.

Whatever the reason, it is undeniably a deflationary trend, not a trend threatening a sharp break in the boom, but one that is in the direction of less inflationary pressure on prices. The smaller the pool of savings and credit, the less it will contribute to inflation.

As the vast backlog of deposited earnings decline, there will be less demand for goods, especially with tighter restrictions on deferred payments. This is a phase of the economy which students of economics are watching carefully. When prices reach a point at which they are unattractive, the business index will turn downward unless the government's $40,000,000,000 expenditures are boosted still higher to keep the bubble from bursting.

New York City has started a radio drive to encourage the speaking of better English. An impression prevails that any change there would be for the better.

Immune To Crises

If the mistakes made at Yalta and Potsdam finally result in involving the United States in war with Russia, there is every indication that the American people will regard the development phlegmatically. There have been so many "crises" before, during and since what is commonly described as World War II that the average taxpayer has become numb.

Such lethargic disregard for momentous developments is something new for Americans, who formerly lost no time in meeting crises head on. It is characteristic, however, of European countries which have been dragged through wars times without number. It is a feeling of hopelessness, a conviction that nothing matters and that there is no brightness in the future.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Once Gouty, Always Gouty

Gout is one of the oldest diseases known to man. Despite our long association with it, however, there must be thousands of victims who are unaware that they have the malady because of its being mistaken for something else. This is understandable as the disturbance mimics arthritis, bursitis, sprains, and several infections. Furthermore, there are many people who have the erroneous idea that only the well-to-do are afflicted. On the contrary, the disease is not this choosy, and unless certain blood tests and X-ray examinations are made, the diagnosis is likely to be missed.

Ninety-five per cent of the victims are men, usually in the middle or advanced age group. Gout resembles rheumatism in that one or more joints become swollen, red, and painful. The hinge at the base of the big toe is involved usually but this is not a hard and fast rule and explains why the exceptions are often misdiagnosed. Another characteristic of gout is that early in the course of the disease it occurs at periodic intervals only with long periods of comfort between. Later, the attacks develop more frequently and last longer. Such bouts are common in spring or fall and are likely to be precipitated by injury, operations, and dietary excesses especially during holidays, vacations, and conventions. The victim is stricken usually early in the morning and by evening the pain is so severe that even the weight of the bed linens hurts. Many find it impossible to walk or insert their foot in a shoe. Unless treated, distress continues from two to ten days and then subsides.

Gout is a disease in which the body fails to metabolize the protein, uric acid. As a result, the blood becomes saturated with the chemical and sooner or later the substance finds its way into the joints, skin, and kidneys. The condition is comparable with diabetes, except that uric acid accumulates instead of sugar. We know the pancreas is at fault in diabetes, but to date we have been unable to implicate any organ in gout. Hence we cannot utilize a drug such as insulin to keep the malady in tow. On the other hand, if the victim will consume a diet low in meat, fish, fowl, condiments, and certain vegetables the system will receive less uric acid and the amount in the blood remains at a satisfactory level. Furthermore, once gouty, always gouty. As a result, the individual must be careful of what he eats for the rest of his life.

•—•—•

There are several drugs which can be used to remove the uric acid crystals from the system. The most effective is colchicine and when used properly, relieves pain in a dramatic fashion. Aspirin and sodium salicylate are also helpful. Cinchophen is an old remedy which fell into ill-repute years ago because of its adverse effect on the liver. It is being revived, however, and nowadays, in light of our increased knowledge along this line, is being used again with considerable success. These drugs are administered especially during acute bouts. In addition, relief also is hastened by remaining in bed and taking a saline cathartic as soon as possible after the onset of symptoms. Some prefer the application of heat, others cold. This makes little difference because neither affects the course of the disase and is used merely to ease pain.

Rushing Matters

W. C. writes: I was told that my acne was a teen-age condition. I am now 20 and it has not improved. Is there anything I can do?

REPLY

Have patience; meanwhile send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this annoying skin disorder.

Muscular Spasms

H. J. writes: Will you please explain how overactive muscles cause cramping from head to foot.

REPLY

In this condition (myotonia), the muscles are tense, contract vigorously, and are often difficult to relax. The cause is unknown but it is usually hereditary.

Mainly Bones

D. C. writes: Does rickets affect the brain?

REPLY

Rarely, as the disease involves the bones chiefly. When the skull is enlarged or deformed, the child may appear retarded, but, actually, mental deficiency is not present.

Depends Upon Case

C. L. writes: How long after operation for stomach ulcer must a person remain on a bland diet?

REPLY

This is an individual problem which your physician and surgeon will have to settle.

Tuberculosis From Cattle

M. C. writes: What organs are attacked by bovine tuberculosis?

REPLY

Almost any type of tissue can be affected especially bones, joints, and glands.

Infrequent

Mrs. F. writes: Is uremia common during pregnancy?

REPLY

No. This complication is relatively rare.

Blaming The Weather Man

A. J. writes: Can headache be caused by the weather?

REPLY

Fortunately no, but changes in the weather aggravate distress once it occurs. On the other hand, if headache is due to an arthritic condition of the spine discomfort is more noticeable just prior to inclement weather.

HAVE PATIENCE. THIS WILL REQUIRE A LITTLE TIME.

Senator Thomas Of Oklahoma Writes Extraordinary Letter To Senator Ferguson Of Michigan; Thomas Threatens To Expose Ferguson If Probe Continues

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — A great many people have wondered whatever became of the Senate probe of Senator Elmer Thomas, Democrat of Oklahoma, which Senator Ferguson, Republican of Michigan, began with considerable fanfare last winter.

The start of the probe made newspaper headlines, then suddenly and mysteriously Senator Ferguson quit. He said absolutely nothing more about his Democratic colleague from Oklahoma—even looked embarrassed and changed the subject when the matter was mentioned.

The reason for Ferguson's sudden change of heart has now come to light. Senator Thomas did some investigating of his own regarding Senator Ferguson, then wrote him a personal letter threatening to make these facts public:

In particular, he dug into the connections of Senator Ferguson's son-in-law, Charles R. Beltz, with the Chrysler Automobile Company and its subsidiary, Chrysler Airtemp.

To get the full picture, it is necessary to recall that on May 6, 1946 this column first disclosed the fact that Senator Thomas had been making speeches on the Senate floor aimed to influence the cotton market while he, his wife and friends bet their money in advance on cotton.

Cronies Are Indicted

Senator Thomas promptly denied this. But two years later, when the official records were published, his speculation deals were fully confirmed. Furthermore, four of his cronies—Ralph Moore, Robert Harriss, Tom Linder of Georgia and J. E. McDonald of Texas—were indicted for illegally influencing the commodity market.

Meanwhile, Republican leaders, who had promised the public they would "investigate, investigate, investigate," and who had thoroughly probed the commodity speculations of two Democrats—Ed Pauley and the President's personal physician—decided also to turn the heat on Democratic Senator Thomas of Oklahoma.

Senator Ferguson of Michigan, widely acclaimed as the Senate's foremost investigator and who aspires to be Dewey's attorney general, was given the job of investigating Thomas.

Then, suddenly, on Feb. 14, Thomas wrote Ferguson one of the most extraordinary letters ever written by one Senator to another, and nothing has been heard of the Thomas probe since. Ferguson dropped it like a hot potato.

This column has now obtained a photostat copy of the Thomas letter. It is written in longhand and after referring to the fact that Senator Ferguson has spent a great deal of public money investigating him, Senator Thomas continues:

Senator Thomas's Letter

"I assume that you will not object to me using my private funds to do some investigating of facts, or incidents that are coming to me from all parts of the country.

"I have been in the Congress for over 25 years; I have been in every state in the union; I have friends in almost every city of the country, and I have many friends and even relatives in Michigan and especially in the great city of Detroit. In the past it has never even occurred to me to think of repeating the stories and incidents about Senators and Congressmen—and to mention the name of a lady—well, such is too low for me to attempt to describe. . .

"In my formal letter to you I refer to the 'Chrysler Airtemp Sales Corporation' and to the 'Charles R. Beltz and Company' and this is to advise that I have rather full information and data respecting your connection with such organization. While you have deemed it in the public interest to investigate my wife—Edith Thomas—and to leave the impression that I have used and am still using her as a 'front' for my private business transactions, I wonder what your friends and constituents in Michigan will say when they learn that the same charge can be made against you.

"I have all the pertinent facts with respect to the said company; the names of the stockholders, the number of shares and the official positions held by each such stockholder.

"You must know that the making of such information public at this time could not possibly do any person any good—but instead, because of your unwarranted attacks upon me and my family such publicity would unleash a horde of reporters who will go to any limit to get news stories. You, your fine wife, your likewise fine daughter and her equally fine husband, should not be subjected to constant telephone calls and requests for interviews as certainly will happen if the charges against you and your family are made public. This is my forecast as I know full well what you have already done to me and my family.

Who Paid The Bills?

"Again I must remind you that your committee went on a 'fishing expedition' in an effort to develop evidence to destroy me. . .As stated—inasmuch as I do not have access to the United States Treasury and to investigators and detectives, I will be compelled to defend myself against further alleged charges on the Senate floor. I assure you that I do not want to be driven to making public, data, in the form of charges against you and your Committee.

"Personally it should be of no concern. . .where you have spent your summer vacations, whom with, who paid the bills, or when and how you have entertained your friends here in Washington. That is your private business—but you must remember that I have private business myself. Swanky parties with all that goes along—including the best of drinks including good champaign (sic)—all paid for by another—is not good publicity at any time—and is especially bad in a personal campaign year. Luckily, I am not a candidate this year.

"You will no doubt be surprised to know that among my letters and reports, some not signed — that charges have been made that certain wealthy automobile interests, acting through lady members of their inside organizations have made gifts of valuable coats, dresses and other items to certain members of your family.

"Senator, your activities against me and the personal charges against you have no proper place in the Senate of the United States. I have done nothing that I am ashamed of and I certainly know of nothing that you should be ashamed of—save perhaps your attacks upon Mrs. Thomas and me.

"I have personally written this lingthy (sic) not in order to keep it strictly private. However for fear that I may hereafter need a copy I have had the sheets photostated but I do not plan to make the contents public unless I deem public interest will be served thereby.

"Sincerely
"ELMER THOMAS"

What Kind Of Flation?

BUSINESS is concerned as to what the Republicans will do, if they are elected, about what is called inflation or deflation. We now have a dollar which has a purchasing power of roughly 57 cents as compared with 1939. That figure varies as prices vary and prices are affected most in this country by the cost of labor and by taxes.

Therefore, some elements among labor fear that if the Republicans come to office, they will remove certain props which keep wages high. The principal props are our huge expenditures for national defense, as preparedness for war is euphemistically called, and our foreign aids, the most costly of which is ECA. Neither of these can be dispensed with or be seriously curtailed.

Farm prices, on the other hand, are kept high by federal subsidies and by government purchases. In a measure, this is a prop for high wages (although a fictitious one) because as long as the cost of food is high, the cost of wages must be high, as the laborer must be paid sufficiently to be able to purchase his sustenance. The Republicans are not likely to change this equation because it cannot be done swiftly or drastically without upsetting the economy of the nation.

Any severe fall in prices—anything, for example, approaching a return to prewar prices—would inevitably result in unemployment, dperession and widespread hardship. This is so because it is impossible to have falling prices and continue to have a rising national income. The high prices that the housewife pays for pork chops and hamburgers and the high wages brought home are only two different aspects of the same picture. They are both a result of the great expansion of money income which has been brought about by the huge government spending, especially the spending by the Government of borrowed money.

It is only natural that we all like to be able to keep the present level of wages, earnings and dividends, and at the same time bring down the cost of living to where it used to be before the war. That would be having our cake and eating it, too. That is too much to ask.

But it is not too much to ask that we should be able to keep on getting approximately our present level of wages and earnings and dividends without being squeezed by a further rise in prices. There ought even to be some prospect of a gradual relief from high prices.

To bring about such a development, we need two things: First, we need to stop the further expansion of the money supply by bringing the federal budget under control and carrying out a systematic reduction of the national debt. Second, and most important, we need to increase our productivity so that we can turn out a larger volume of goods at a lower per unit cost. This is the way America has traditionally moved toward a higher standard of living.

But this will certainly not happen if we make the mistake of trying to put on the brakes too sharply in our anxiety to halt the rising prices. There are ample signs, particularly in the field of agricultural commodities, that the scarcities arising out of the war and the postwar conditions in the world are gradually being overcome and that the normal workings of supply and demand are bringing about a natural tapering off in the postwar price inflation. Certainly the present harvest is evidence of this and should do much to lower basic food prices if the Administration in Washington is at all competent.

The thing to do is to encaurage that natural tapering off, but to do nothing of so extreme a character as to turn inflation into deflation. The chief trouble of a boom is that it is often likely to be followed by a bust. But that does not mean that we should carry our worries about a boom to the length of deliberately trying to create a bust, which is what Henry Wallace tried to do as Secretary of Commerce and Mr. Truman is now using as a campaign weapon.

High Farm Prices And Cause As Seen By Noted Statistician

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—During the past week I have been calling upon friends here to get a line as to how they feel about things in general. Here is a brief report.

They are fairly unanimous that Mr. Dewey will be elected President. They are sure he will "clean the rascale out" and replace them by men who will give legitimate business a fair break. This especially applies to appointments to such important bodies as the Tax Appeal Board, the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Federal Trade Commission and the various Labor Boards. They also believe Mr. Dewey will appoint very much better judges than Mr. Truman has appointed.

Wall Street, however, has its fingers crossed as to the outlook for general business and the stock market in 1949 and 1950. They say that Dewey believes there must be a "bust" before 1952 when he would come up for re-election. Hence, he would much rather have the depression come in the early part of his term and "get it over with" than have it come in the latter part. Therefore, Wall Street thinks it very possible that the Republicans may try to deflate prices, wages and money-in-circulation in 1949. This would be what Roosevelt did in 1936; but it got away from him and we had a bad break.

Farmers Are Prosperous

Of course, all my New York City friends are yelling about farm prices. Without doubt they would be much lower today if it were not for the support which the government is giving farm prices. It does seem unreasonable for the government to pay potato growers in Maine $3.50 per barrel and then dump these potatoes in the ocean; while you and I must pay at the rate of over $5.00 per barrel or much more if we buy by the pound. There are 137½ pounds in a barrel. It now looks as if the government would also be obliged to buy considerable corn, wheat and other products and either burn them or sell them at a big loss.

But I tell my Wall Street friends there is another side to this story. It is true that farm net income is now four times as high as the 1935-1939 average; but this average meant foreclosures and intolerable conditions. The total gross farm income for the 1948 crop is estimated at $17 billion compared with $11 billion for the 1935-1939 average. There is no doubt but the farmers are more prosperous than they have been for years.

Farmers Deserve Help

But, according to the 1945 census 60 per cent of all farms grossed less than $2,000 in products, while the gross of 75 per cent was less than $3,000 giving net incomes of only half or two-thirds these figures. Comparable gross income for 1948 may be 25 per cent more than the 1945 figures; but this will be offset by a like increase in the cost of machinery, labor, interest on debt, building maintenance, etc. In other words, even with high prices 75 per cent of the farmers are not netting as much when working 14 hours a day as city bricklayers, painters, carpenters and even common laborers get for working only 8 hours. This is not fair.

So that when you divide the Government bonuses among millions of farmers there is not much for each one. Furthermore, when you consider how dependent farmers are upon weather, they are entitled to a few good years to take care of them when later crop failures and other disasters come. Therefore, so far as these small farmers go I believe the government guarantees are justified. As to the few big farmers, the government gets back at least half of its guarantee through income taxes.

Something Not To Forget

Let me also say that farmers raise something more than wheat, corn and potatoes. They raise the best children which the nation produces. Most successful employers will tell you that their best executives were born upon farms. They tell me here that not a single president of today's New York City banks was born in New York City. Most bank presidents everywhere were born on farms or else were sons of preachers, doctors or college professors. We need many more such men.

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—(INS)—Sideglances at celebrities:

Gen. Ike Eisenhower, whose painting (excellent) of an American Indian goes on exhibition today at New York's Associated American Artists Galleries—along with those of other celebrated amateur artists—got into painting by accident.

Tom Stevens, well-known American protraitist, was doing a canvas of Mrs. Eisenhower eight months ago. The General would stand by and watch him work from time to time, but one day he couldn't resist the business any longer. "Let me take a whack at that," he asked.

Stevens had a spare easel at hand. He borrowed an Eisenhower pillow case and stretched it over the wood supports and handed Ike a palette. What resulted is called, by Stevens, "an interesting primitive." When Eisenhower went to the masters golf tournament at Augusta this past spring he took along his paint, borrowed a piece of plaster board from the club and did a view of the clubhouse and putting green from Bobby Jones' porch.

It was on the back of this that he painted the Indian head. The General wanted the Augusta scene scratched off but his aides at Columbia prevailed on the committee to countermand the order and have the painting framed in such a way to preserve the back—of which one aide said, with a certain note of awe, "A hundred years from now this will be known as the General's first landscape."

Eisenhower gets a genuine boot out of his new hobby. Because of the pressure of his many duties he can get to his canvas only once or twice a week, usually at night. One of these days, he says, he's going to get around to buying some daylight lights. "Colors look completely different the next morning, if you paint at night," he said, voicing a complaint that has been heard since the first muralists went to work on their cave walls.

Gen. Wild Bill Donovan, speaking before the Overseas Press Club:

"The real fear of Western Europe is that we'll abandon them. The Russians have exploited this. They never miss an opportunity, whenever we retreat an inch or withdraw a man, to say to the people, 'You see, the Americans are leaving you. You'd better line up with us.'

"What we need is some kind of Monroe Doctrine for Western Europe. Europe certainly means more to us today than South America meant 125 years ago . . . . the risk war."

Francis Cardinal Spellman first saw Babe Ruth play baseball while a young priest in Boston. There was a long lapse in their association, not renewed, in fact, until after Babe was stricken with the trouble that was to kill him.

At Babe Ruth Day in Yankee Stadium a couple of years ago the Cardinal made a brief appearance before the game (he gave up attending his favorite sport 10 years ago) took part in the pre-game ceremonies and, as he left, said to Babe:

"I know you've been feeling bum, Babe. If you care, I'll come up to your place and give you Holy Communion some morning."

"Don't bother," Babe said, "I'll come down to your place."

The Cardinal, who recently built the magnificent Archbishop Stepinac High School in White Plains, N. Y., has determined to name the stadium "Babe Ruth Stadium.'

He recently met with a group of New York sportswriters and Mayor Bill O'Dwyer, at the Mayor's home, to seek ways and means of raising the necessary funds to perpetuate the Babe's memory in this manner.

It was decided that, for the time being, he would accept contributions at 460 Madison Ave., N. Y. C. . . . Anything from a dime up. A nation-wide essay contest for boys and girls may follow.

"But whatever happens," the Cardial told the co-operating Mayor and sportswriters, "I'm going to build that stadium in Babe's memory."

You won't be able to see it until Navy Day, when it will be released through the country, but when the time comes don't miss "The Secret Land," the technicolor film MGM put together from the miles of film shot by Admiral Byrd's photographers in the Antarctic.

Most Precious Of All

Baltasar Gracian, the Spanish writer and philosopher, once wrote that to have a friend was to have "a second existence." When I first read that I stopped reading, set the book aside and thought it over. How full of meaning that statement!

It explains why it is, I believe, that when we lose a friend, we lose a part of our own existence. That is the way Charles Lamb felt when he lost his closest friend, and remarked that there was then no one to call him "Charley."

Most precious of all possessions in this "second existence"—a friend. Happy is that one who may fortunately have created for himself three or four of these friends upon who mhe may look as his "second existence!"

We reflect in our friend the hunger of our heart, and we meld an understanding to him, as the worker in metals puts together the different substances that hold the gold. Gold alone is too soft to last under wear, so an alloy is added. Thus we intermix our faults with the best that we are, and our friend adds the gold that lends endurance.

Another thing about this "second existence." When we are gone, that "second existence" of ours, in a friend or two, remains, lives, and spreads its influence and inspiration afar. We die a little every time we lose a friend, but we live anew with the discovery of a new one.

Start your life off with a friend and you will be well on your way. It is easier to succeed with a friend than with a thousand dollars or more. The former may be for a lifetime; the latter might well melt away in a day! So, tie to a friend.

It takes a deal of understanding to gain a friend—lots of loving, lots of forgiving, lots of overlooking, and lots of believing. But once invested, the dividends begin at once, and are never cut off when trouble comes or times grow difficult. The friend remains, like a guardian.

People have gained great wealth, won distinction, and have been appeased with popular applause—yet have remained poor and lonely—without a genuine friend.

Can Cumberland Ever Hope To See Such A Day?

The City of Pittsburgh is getting a high-priced facial, now that it's got the smoke out of its eyes, the Associated Press said in a dispatch several days ago. Convinced that smoke control is there to stay, property owners have started a building cleaning program that already has cost nearly a $1,000,000. It has transformed the fabulous Golden Triangle business district into a striking checkerboard, with freshly scrubbed buildings standing sharp contrast beside grimy neighbors as steam and scrubbing teams reveal undreamed-of beauty in downtown facades that had been hidden for years by the constant accumulation of smoke and soot.

The story goes on to point out that Pennsylvania Station was the scene of a startling metamorphosis. The pinkish-buff surface of brick and terra cotta, that for nearly fifty years people of Pittsburgh had come to believe were black bricks, so heavily were they covered with soot, has been uncovered.

This facial operation has been inaugurated by a heavily backed civic organization, which has for its goal a cleaner city. To emphasize that they have every confidence in the ability of the smoke-abatement officials to keep smoke out of the city, members of the organization remodeled a condemned, soot-blackened, two-story building into a modern headquarters and, above all things, painted the structure snow white with sky blue trimming.

All this is the first fruit to be born of the smoke-control program. Thousands of Pittsburgh homeowners are now behind the endeavors since they were enjoined by law from using "high volatile fuels." It meant that they had to learn how to stoke their furnaces with cleaner-burning coal. The undertaking was not without grumblings because, until the nack of using such fuel had been conquered, it was difficult to keep it burning. Stiff fines had to be imposed on the die-hards who persisted in using the other type of coal.

Now industry is changing over. Of the city's three major railroad yards, two have converted to Diesel locomotives. The third expects its orders for similar equipment to be filled this Fall. The Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation is spending $4,500,000 to modernize its boilers. The company which heats many of the largest office buildings in downtown Pittsburgh, is installing $600,000 worth of electronic dust precipitators in its huge stacks. (Cumberland industries take notice.)

As proof that the smoke-control program is succeeding, the United States Weather Bureau reports downtown visibility 68 per cent better than a year ago. Further, last Winter Pittsburgh didn't see a one of its famous "midnight-at-noon" days—when soot-filled clouds blackened out the sun and lunch-hour traffic picked its way along by street light. The success which has marked Pittsburgh's efforts is attracting attention of more than a hundred cities which have written to learn how they, too, can have a smoke-free city. As the writer of the Associated Press story observes, "That old wheeze. 'came clean from Pittsburgh,' may have been one of the jokes that killed vaudeville. Now smoke control has killed the joke."

Of course, Cumberland's conditions cannot be compared to Pittsburgh's, but the people of the city are wondering if the time will come when business firms shall feel that effort and money will not be wasted in following the Steel City's example of washing away the grime and soot from its downtown structures. Will that time come, Mr. Director of Smoke Control?

Decline In Savings Being Closely Watched

National statistics show that the rate of savings by the American people is turning downward. Savings banks report a drop in their deposits for the first time since prewar years. There had been for seven years the sharpest rise in savings in all history.

The reason for this has not been analyzed. No one can be sure people are drawing on their savings for current living expenses. They could be buying homes or converting savings into durable goods.

Whatever the reason, it is undeniably a deflationary trend, not a trend threatening a sharp break in the boom, but one that is in the direction of less inflationary pressure on prices. The smaller the pool of savings and credit, the less it will contribute to inflation.

As the vast backlog of deposited earnings decline, there will be less demand for goods, especially with tighter restrictions on deferred payments. This is a phase of the economy which students of economics are watching carefully. When prices reach a point at which they are unattractive, the business index will turn downward unless the government's $40,000,000,000 expenditures are boosted still higher to keep the bubble from bursting.

Immune To Crises

If the mistakes made at Yalta and Potsdam finally result in involving the United States in war with Russia, there is every indication that the American people will regard the development phlegmatically. There have been so many "crises" before, during and since what is commonly described as World War II that the average taxpayer has become numb.

Such lethargic disregard for momentous developments is something new for Americans, who formerly lost no time in meeting crises head on. It is characteristic, however, of European countries which have been dragged through wars times without number. It is a feeling of hopelessness, a conviction that nothing matters and that there is no brightness in the future.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Once Gouty, Always Gouty

Gout is one of the oldest diseases known to man. Despite our long association with it, however, there must be thousands of victims who are unaware that they have the malady because of its being mistaken for something else. This is understandable as the disturbance mimics arthritis, bursitis, sprains, and several infections. Furthermore, there are many people who have the erroneous idea that only the well-to-do are afflicted. On the contrary, the disease is not this choosy, and unless certain blood tests and X-ray examinations are made, the diagnosis is likely to be missed.

Ninety-five per cent of the victims are men, usually in the middle or advanced age group. Gout resembles rheumatism in that one or more joints become swollen, red, and painful. The hinge at the base of the big toe is involved usually but this is not a hard and fast rule and explains why the exceptions are often misdiagnosed. Another characteristic of gout is that early in the course of the disease it occurs at periodic intervals only with long periods of comfort between. Later, the attacks develop more frequently and last longer. Such bouts are common in spring or fall and are likely to be precipitated by injury, operations, and dietary excesses especially during holidays, vacations, and conventions. The victim is stricken usually early in the morning and by evening the pain is so severe that even the weight of the bed linens hurts. Many find it impossible to walk or insert their foot in a shoe. Unless treated, distress continues from two to ten days and then subsides.

Gout is a disease in which the body fails to metabolize the protein, uric acid. As a result, the blood becomes saturated with the chemical and sooner or later the substance finds its way into the joints, skin, and kidneys. The condition is comparable with diabetes, except that uric acid accumulates instead of sugar. We know the pancreas is at fault in diabetes, but to date we have been unable to implicate any organ in gout. Hence we cannot utilize a drug such as insulin to keep the malady in tow. On the other hand, if the victim will consume a diet low in meat, fish, fowl, condiments, and certain vegetables the system will receive less uric acid and the amount in the blood remains at a satisfactory level. Furthermore, once gouty, always gouty. As a result, the individual must be careful of what he eats for the rest of his life.

•—•—•

There are several drugs which can be used to remove the uric acid crystals from the system. The most effective is colchicine and when used properly, relieves pain in a dramatic fashion. Aspirin and sodium salicylate are also helpful. Cinchophen is an old remedy which fell into ill-repute years ago because of its adverse effect on the liver. It is being revived, however, and nowadays, in light of our increased knowledge along this line, is being used again with considerable success. These drugs are administered especially during acute bouts. In addition, relief also is hastened by remaining in bed and taking a saline cathartic as soon as possible after the onset of symptoms. Some prefer the application of heat, others cold. This makes little difference because neither affects the course of the disease and is used merely to ease pain.

Senator Thomas Of Oklahoma Writes Extraordinary Letter To Senator Ferguson Of Michigan; Thomas Threatens To Expose Ferguson If Probe Continues

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — A great many people have wondered whatever became of the Senate probe of Senator Elmer Thomas, Democrat of Oklahoma, which Senator Ferguson, Republican of Michigan, began with considerable fanfare last winter.

The start of the probe made newspaper headlines, then suddenly and mysteriously Senator Ferguson quit. He said absolutely nothing more about his Democratic colleague from Oklahoma—even looked embarrassed and changed the subject when the matter was mentioned.

The reason for Ferguson's sudden change of heart has now come to light. Senator Thomas did some investigating of his own regarding Senator Ferguson, then wrote him a personal letter threatening to make these facts public:

In particular, he dug into the connections of Senator Ferguson's son-in-law, Charles R. Beltz, with the Chrysler Automobile Company and its subsidiary, Chrysler Airtemp.

To get the full picture, it is necessary to recall that on May 6, 1946 this column first disclosed the fact that Senator Thomas had been making speeches on the Senate floor aimed to influence the cotton market while he, his wife and friends bet their money in advance on cotton.

Cronies Are Indicted

Senator Thomas promptly denied this. But two years later, when the official records were published, his speculation deals were fully confirmed. Furthermore, four of his cronies—Ralph Moore, Robert Harriss, Tom Linder of Georgia and J. E. McDonald of Texas—were indicted for illegally influencing the commodity market.

Meanwhile, Republican leaders, who had promised the public they would "investigate, investigate, investigate," and who had thoroughly probed the commodity speculations of two Democrats—Ed Pauley and the President's personal physician—decided also to turn the heat on Democratic Senator Thomas of Oklahoma.

Senator Ferguson of Michigan, widely acclaimed as the Senate's foremost investigator and who aspires to be Dewey's attorney general, was given the job of investigating Thomas.

Then, suddenly, on Feb. 14, Thomas wrote Ferguson one of the most extraordinary letters ever written by one Senator to another, and nothing has been heard of the Thomas probe since. Ferguson dropped it like a hot potato.

This column has now obtained a photostat copy of the Thomas letter. It is written in longhand and after referring to the fact that Senator Ferguson has spent a great deal of public money investigating him, Senator Thomas continues:

Senator Thomas's Letter

"I assume that you will not object to me using my private funds to do some investigating of facts, or incidents that are coming to me from all parts of the country.

"I have been in the Congress for over 25 years; I have been in every state in the union; I have friends in almost every city of the country, and I have many friends and even relatives in Michigan and especially in the great city of Detroit. In the past it has never even occurred to me to think of repeating the stories and incidents about Senators and Congressmen—and to mention the name of a lady—well, such is too low for me to attempt to describe. . .

"In my formal letter to you I refer to the 'Chrysler Airtemp Sales Corporation' and to the 'Charles R. Beltz and Company' and this is to advise that I have rather full information and data respecting your connection with such organization. While you have deemed it in the public interest to investigate my wife—Edith Thomas—and to leave the impression that I have used and am still using her as a 'front' for my private business transactions, I wonder what your friends and constituents in Michigan will say when they learn that the same charge can be made against you.

"I have all the pertinent facts with respect to the said company; the names of the stockholders, the number of shares and the official positions held by each such stockholder.

"You must know that the making of such information public at this time could not possibly do any person any good—but instead, because of your unwarranted attacks upon me and my family such publicity would unleash a horde of reporters who will go to any limit to get news stories. You, your fine wife, your likewise fine daughter and her equally fine husband, should not be subjected to constant telephone calls and requests for interviews as certainly will happen if the charges against you and your family are made public. This is my forecast as I know full well what you have already done to me and my family.

Who Paid The Bills?

"Again I must remind you that your committee went on a 'fishing expedition' in an effort to develop evidence to destroy me. . .As stated—inasmuch as I do not have access to the United States Treasury and to investigators and detectives, I will be compelled to defend myself against further alleged charges on the Senate floor. I assure you that I do not want to be driven to making public, data, in the form of charges against you and your Committee.

"Personally it should be of no concern. . .where you have spent your summer vacations, whom with, who paid the bills, or when and how you have entertained your friends here in Washington. That is your private business—but you must remember that I have private business myself. Swanky parties with all that goes along—including the best of drinks including good champaign (sic)—all paid for by another—is not good publicity at any time—and is especially bad in a personal campaign year. Luckily, I am not a candidate this year.

"You will no doubt be surprised to know that among my letters and reports, some not signed — that charges have been made that certain wealthy automobile interests, acting through lady members of their inside organizations have made gifts of valuable coats, dresses and other items to certain members of your family.

"Senator, your activities against me and the personal charges against you have no proper place in the Senate of the United States. I have done nothing that I am ashamed of and I certainly know of nothing that you should be ashamed of—save perhaps your attacks upon Mrs. Thomas and me.

"I have personally written this lingthy (sic) not in order to keep it strictly private. However for fear that I may hereafter need a copy I have had the sheets photostated but I do not plan to make the contents public unless I deem public interest will be served thereby.

"Sincerely
"ELMER THOMAS"

What Kind Of Flation?

BUSINESS is concerned as to what the Republicans will do, if they are elected, about what is called inflation or deflation. We now have a dollar which has a purchasing power of roughly 57 cents as compared with 1939. That figure varies as prices vary and prices are affected most in this country by the cost of labor and by taxes.

Therefore, some elements among labor fear that if the Republicans come to office, they will remove certain props which keep wages high. The principal props are our huge expenditures for national defense, as preparedness for war is euphemistically called, and our foreign aids, the most costly of which is ECA. Neither of these can be dispensed with or be seriously curtailed.

Farm prices, on the other hand, are kept high by federal subsidies and by government purchases. In a measure, this is a prop for high wages (although a fictitious one) because as long as the cost of food is high, the cost of wages must be high, as the laborer must be paid sufficiently to be able to purchase his sustenance. The Republicans are not likely to change this equation because it cannot be done swiftly or drastically without upsetting the economy of the nation.

Any severe fall in prices—anything, for example, approaching a return to prewar prices—would inevitably result in unemployment, dperession and widespread hardship. This is so because it is impossible to have falling prices and continue to have a rising national income. The high prices that the housewife pays for pork chops and hamburgers and the high wages brought home are only two different aspects of the same picture. They are both a result of the great expansion of money income which has been brought about by the huge government spending, especially the spending by the Government of borrowed money.

It is only natural that we all like to be able to keep the present level of wages, earnings and dividends, and at the same time bring down the cost of living to where it used to be before the war. That would be having our cake and eating it, too. That is too much to ask.

But it is not too much to ask that we should be able to keep on getting approximately our present level of wages and earnings and dividends without being squeezed by a further rise in prices. There ought even to be some prospect of a gradual relief from high prices.

To bring about such a development, we need two things: First, we need to stop the further expansion of the money supply by bringing the federal budget under control and carrying out a systematic reduction of the national debt. Second, and most important, we need to increase our productivity so that we can turn out a larger volume of goods at a lower per unit cost. This is the way America has traditionally moved toward a higher standard of living.

But this will certainly not happen if we make the mistake of trying to put on the brakes too sharply in our anxiety to halt the rising prices. There are ample signs, particularly in the field of agricultural commodities, that the scarcities arising out of the war and the postwar conditions in the world are gradually being overcome and that the normal workings of supply and demand are bringing about a natural tapering off in the postwar price inflation. Certainly the present harvest is evidence of this and should do much to lower basic food prices if the Administration in Washington is at all competent.

The thing to do is to encaurage that natural tapering off, but to do nothing of so extreme a character as to turn inflation into deflation. The chief trouble of a boom is that it is often likely to be followed by a bust. But that does not mean that we should carry our worries about a boom to the length of deliberately trying to create a bust, which is what Henry Wallace tried to do as Secretary of Commerce and Mr. Truman is now using as a campaign weapon.

High Farm Prices And Cause As Seen By Noted Statistician

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—During the past week I have been calling upon friends here to get a line as to how they feel about things in general. Here is a brief report.

They are fairly unanimous that Mr. Dewey will be elected President. They are sure he will "clean the rascale out" and replace them by men who will give legitimate business a fair break. This especially applies to appointments to such important bodies as the Tax Appeal Board, the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Federal Trade Commission and the various Labor Boards. They also believe Mr. Dewey will appoint very much better judges than Mr. Truman has appointed.

Wall Street, however, has its fingers crossed as to the outlook for general business and the stock market in 1949 and 1950. They say that Dewey believes there must be a "bust" before 1952 when he would come up for re-election. Hence, he would much rather have the depression come in the early part of his term and "get it over with" than have it come in the latter part. Therefore, Wall Street thinks it very possible that the Republicans may try to deflate prices, wages and money-in-circulation in 1949. This would be what Roosevelt did in 1936; but it got away from him and we had a bad break.

Farmers Are Prosperous

Of course, all my New York City friends are yelling about farm prices. Without doubt they would be much lower today if it were not for the support which the government is giving farm prices. It does seem unreasonable for the government to pay potato growers in Maine $3.50 per barrel and then dump these potatoes in the ocean; while you and I must pay at the rate of over $5.00 per barrel or much more if we buy by the pound. There are 137½ pounds in a barrel. It now looks as if the government would also be obliged to buy considerable corn, wheat and other products and either burn them or sell them at a big loss.

But I tell my Wall Street friends there is another side to this story. It is true that farm net income is now four times as high as the 1935-1939 average; but this average meant foreclosures and intolerable conditions. The total gross farm income for the 1948 crop is estimated at $17 billion compared with $11 billion for the 1935-1939 average. There is no doubt but the farmers are more prosperous than they have been for years.

Farmers Deserve Help

But, according to the 1945 census 60 per cent of all farms grossed less than $2,000 in products, while the gross of 75 per cent was less than $3,000 giving net incomes of only half or two-thirds these figures. Comparable gross income for 1948 may be 25 per cent more than the 1945 figures; but this will be offset by a like increase in the cost of machinery, labor, interest on debt, building maintenance, etc. In other words, even with high prices 75 per cent of the farmers are not netting as much when working 14 hours a day as city bricklayers, painters, carpenters and even common laborers get for working only 8 hours. This is not fair.

So that when you divide the Government bonuses among millions of farmers there is not much for each one. Furthermore, when you consider how dependent farmers are upon weather, they are entitled to a few good years to take care of them when later crop failures and other disasters come. Therefore, so far as these small farmers go I believe the government guarantees are justified. As to the few big farmers, the government gets back at least half of its guarantee through income taxes.

Something Not To Forget

Let me also say that farmers raise something more than wheat, corn and potatoes. They raise the best children which the nation produces. Most successful employers will tell you that their best executives were born upon farms. They tell me here that not a single president of today's New York City banks was born in New York City. Most bank presidents everywhere were born on farms or else were sons of preachers, doctors or college professors. We need many more such men.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—(INS)—Sideglances at celebrities:

Gen. Ike Eisenhower, whose painting (excellent) of an American Indian goes on exhibition today at New York's Associated American Artists Galleries—along with those of other celebrated amateur artists—got into painting by accident.

Tom Stevens, well-known American protraitist, was doing a canvas of Mrs. Eisenhower eight months ago. The General would stand by and watch him work from time to time, but one day he couldn't resist the business any longer. "Let me take a whack at that," he asked.

Stevens had a spare easel at hand. He borrowed an Eisenhower pillow case and stretched it over the wood supports and handed Ike a palette. What resulted is called, by Stevens, "an interesting primitive." When Eisenhower went to the masters golf tournament at Augusta this past spring he took along his paint, borrowed a piece of plaster board from the club and did a view of the clubhouse and putting green from Bobby Jones' porch.

It was on the back of this that he painted the Indian head. The General wanted the Augusta scene scratched off but his aides at Columbia prevailed on the committee to countermand the order and have the painting framed in such a way to preserve the back—of which one aide said, with a certain note of awe, "A hundred years from now this will be known as the General's first landscape."

Eisenhower gets a genuine boot out of his new hobby. Because of the pressure of his many duties he can get to his canvas only once or twice a week, usually at night. One of these days, he says, he's going to get around to buying some daylight lights. "Colors look completely different the next morning, if you paint at night," he said, voicing a complaint that has been heard since the first muralists went to work on their cave walls.

Gen. Wild Bill Donovan, speaking before the Overseas Press Club:

"The real fear of Western Europe is that we'll abandon them. The Russians have exploited this. They never miss an opportunity, whenever we retreat an inch or withdraw a man, to say to the people, 'You see, the Americans are leaving you. You'd better line up with us.'

"What we need is some kind of Monroe Doctrine for Western Europe. Europe certainly means more to us today than South America meant 125 years ago . . . . the risk war."

Francis Cardinal Spellman first saw Babe Ruth play baseball while a young priest in Boston. There was a long lapse in their association, not renewed, in fact, until after Babe was stricken with the trouble that was to kill him.

At Babe Ruth Day in Yankee Stadium a couple of years ago the Cardinal made a brief appearance before the game (he gave up attending his favorite sport 10 years ago) took part in the pre-game ceremonies and, as he left, said to Babe:

"I know you've been feeling bum, Babe. If you care, I'll come up to your place and give you Holy Communion some morning."

"Don't bother," Babe said, "I'll come down to your place."

The Cardinal, who recently built the magnificent Archbishop Stepinac High School in White Plains, N. Y., has determined to name the stadium "Babe Ruth Stadium."

He recently met with a group of New York sportswriters and Mayor Bill O'Dwyer, at the Mayor's home, to seek ways and means of raising the necessary funds to perpetuate the Babe's memory in this manner.

It was decided that, for the time being, he would accept contributions at 460 Madison Ave., N. Y. C. . . . Anything from a dime up. A nation-wide essay contest for boys and girls may follow.

"But whatever happens," the Cardial told the co-operating Mayor and sportswriters, "I'm going to build that stadium in Babe's memory."

You won't be able to see it until Navy Day, when it will be released through the country, but when the time comes don't miss "The Secret Land," the technicolor film MGM put together from the miles of film shot by Admiral Byrd's photographers in the Antarctic.

It'll knock your parka off.

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Most Precious Of All

Baltasar Gracian, the Spanish writer and philosopher, once wrote that to have a friend was to have "a second existence." When I first read that I stopped reading, set the book aside and thought it over. How full of meaning that statement!

It explains why it is, I believe, that when we lose a friend, we lose a part of our own existence. That is the way Charles Lamb felt when he lost his closest friend, and remarked that there was then no one to call him "Charley."

Most precious of all possessions in this "second existence"—a friend. Happy is that one who may fortunately have created for himself three or four of these friends upon who mhe may look as his "second existence!"

We reflect in our friend the hunger of our heart, and we meld an understanding to him, as the worker in metals puts together the different substances that hold the gold. Gold alone is too soft to last under wear, so an alloy is added. Thus we intermix our faults with the best that we are, and our friend adds the gold that lends endurance.

Another thing about this "second existence." When we are gone, that "second existence" of ours, in a friend or two, remains, lives, and spreads its influence and inspiration afar. We die a little every time we lose a friend, but we live anew with the discovery of a new one.

Start your life off with a friend and you will be well on your way. It is easier to succeed with a friend than with a thousand dollars or more. The former may be for a lifetime; the latter might well melt away in a day! So, tie to a friend.

It takes a deal of understanding to gain a friend—lots of loving, lots of forgiving, lots of overlooking, and lots of believing. But once invested, the dividends begin at once, and are never cut off when trouble comes or times grow difficult. The friend remains, like a guardian.

People have gained great wealth, won distinction, and have been appeased with popular applause—yet have remained poor and lonely—without a genuine friend.

Kempton Constable Ends Argument Over Sink

KEMPTON—An argument over a kitchen sink Friday ended in the arrest of Mrs. Margaret White on drunk and disorderly charges, according to Kempton Constable Ed Harvey.

Mrs. White was installing the sink in her kitchen, aided by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Haberjack, according to Constable Harvey, and an argument began as to who owned the faucets on the sink.

The argument began to assume larger proportions when Mrs. Annie Fulketti came to the aid of her daughter, Mrs. White. Constable Harvey said that he came on the scene a little before noon and stopped the dispute.

Mrs. White was fined $15 and given a suspended 90-day jail sentence by the constable later in the day.

Mrs. Haberjack has sworn out a warrant for assault and battery against Mrs. Fulketti which has not been served because both Magistrate H. A. Loraditch and State's Attorney Wayne Stover are out of town, Harvey said.

He added that beyond a black eye sustained by Mrs. Haberjack, no one was injured in the fracas.

Gravel Pit United Brethren Church Observes Fiftieth Anniversary

HYNDMAN, Pa.—Members of Gravel Pit Bethel Evangelical United Brethren Church observed the 50th anniversary of the church last Sunday with a special service.

Music was in charge of Mrs. E. W. Carpenter and Ted Leydig. C. E. Stuby, township historian, gave a resume of the history of the church and Mrs. Annie Sheirer recited a poem she learned 50 years ago.

Stuby's account told of the union log church at Cook's Mills built soon after 1800, the first church building in the township. It was replaced in 1856 by the Cook's Mills chapel.

The Lutherans maintained an organization on Wills Creek, now Madley, in 1805, meetings being held at Henry Lybarger's house near the present George Holler home.

In 1840 Adam Miller built a church near Mrs. Annie Sheirer's home, which was sold to the congregation and in 1883 the present Lybarger Lutheran Church was built and the other building converted into a school.

During the early 70's a revival was held at Hyndman, Palo Alto and the old Shook Shop at Fossilville being meeting places.

Many Coughenours, Wolfords and others joined the congregation and built a church at Gravel Pit on land sold by Jacob Coughenour. The church were erected about 1875 with Rev. Jacob Smith as pastor.

Earl Leap razed this building, the last services being held July 28, 1914. The Evangelicals built at Hyndman in 1874 and at Palo Alto in 1880.

A disagreement between bishops caused a division, one group calling themselves United Evangelicals and the other Evangelical Association.

The Hyndman building was sold and the congregation under Rev. A. C. Miller in 1895 erected a building. The other branch held church at Gravel Pit.

In 1898 it was decided to erect a church and a plot of ground was purchased from Phebe Coughenour along Wills Creek for $6. The cornerstone was laid Sept. 18, 1898, and the building cost $493.14.

The two branches merged in 1922 and the present minister is Rev. A. C. Raley.

The Knotts all pitched in to make the family business a success!

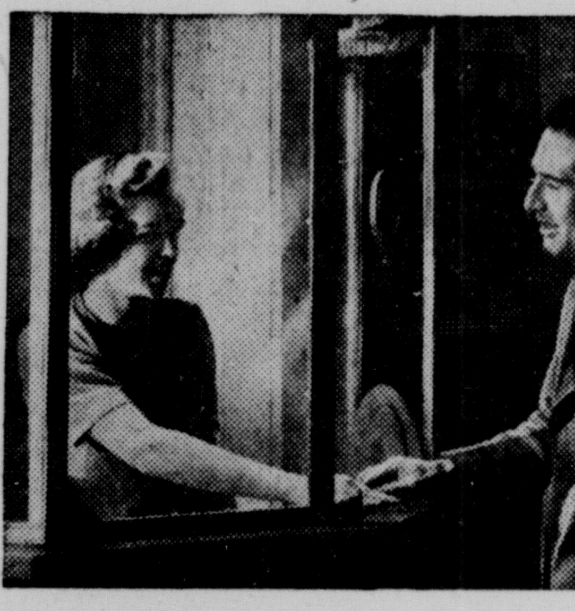
AMERICAN FAMILY CLOSE-UP
As they go, so goes the nation!

The depression hit them hard in 1931! Maynard Knott was glad enough then to pour concrete at $3 a day. Raising a growing family was a struggle even when he got extra summer work running a movie machine. But a business of their own was what they really wanted. Finally they had the chance to buy a little movie theatre. The family ran it; Knott kept his regular job. By pitching in together they saved the money to buy a lot for a bigger, better theatre . . .

Owner-Manager Maynard Knott designed and helped build the new Clay Theatre, only movie in Clayton, N. C. Its Grand Opening in 1947 proved his ability to finish what he starts.



"Junior partner" Julia-Ann, the Knotts' 15-year-old daughter, takes her turn at the ticket window. She helps at home, too . . . takes care of her baby sister . . . really enjoys housework!

Son Dan, 14, took over as manager of popcorn and candy sales. Profits are his for college. Running the theatre itself someday is his big ambition.

Expert manager! Besides helping in the theatre office, Mrs. Knott enjoys making the children's clothes, most of her own; and still finds time to teach in Sunday School.

By lab work at Meredith College, Raleigh, plus savings from three years as theatre cashier, daughter Jackie helps pay her way towards biology degree.

Their garden supplies enough vegetables for them to eat, canned or fresh, all year. They spend $23 cash a week on food for six; $8 for clothes; $3 for recreation; live on about $4200 a year. Money after expenses and some savings goes to church and to several charities.

Money problems are always worked out by the Knotts together. On important matters their life insurance agent helps them. Life insurance, Mr. Knott will tell you, helped him get his business . . . helps protect his family. His $18,000 life insurance program includes some term to cover a debt, takes $23.35 a month. In spite of these uncertain times, says Mr. Knott, "we're getting along towards success. Our secret? We all pitch in and do our share. We all get a kick out of helping each other!"

The future looks bright to baby Janice, too! They're saving for her education as well as for a roomier house!

THE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES AND THEIR AGENTS

BRING YOU THIS STORY BECAUSE... families like the Knotts show us one way that happiness is earned! You, yourself, probably know a family, right in your own town, that is getting ahead in the same typically American way. Such families prove to all of us that we can solve our own problems by our own efforts. . . . Their example shows too why it is so important for us to hold to our rights to think for ourselves, to work at what we like, to live as we choose. ## Kempton Constable Ends Argument Over Sink

KEMPTON—An argument over a kitchen sink Friday ended in the arrest of Mrs. Margaret White on drunk and disorderly charges, according to Kempton Constable Ed Harvey.

Mrs. White was installing the sink in her kitchen, aided by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Haberjack, according to Constable Harvey, and an argument began as to who owned the faucets on the sink.

The argument began to assume larger proportions when Mrs. Annie Fulketti came to the aid of her daughter, Mrs. White. Constable Harvey said that he came on the scene a little before noon and stopped the dispute.

Mrs. White was fined $15 and given a suspended 90-day jail sentence by the constable later in the day.

Mrs. Haberjack has sworn out a warrant for assault and battery against Mrs. Fulketti which has not been served because both Magistrate H. A. Loraditch and State's Attorney Wayne Stover are out of town, Harvey said.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

by Billy Rose

Billy Rose

Quite some columns back, I cited the case of a gangster who raised pigeons as a hobby, and who, when forced to get rid of his flock, strangled 400 birds because he was afraid another owner might mistreat them.

My favorite story of punks and their pets, however, concerns a prominent Man of Extinction who shall hereafter be referred to as Mr. G., inasmuch as he is alive and allergic to publicity.

Back in the days when gin plus caramel coloring equaled Scotch, Mr. G. was one of our high priests of homicide, and the way I heard it, he had attained this eminence by the simple expedient of marrying the boss's daughter and then machine-gunning the boss.

Mr. G., like many a moneyed mobster, had pretentions to respectability, and shortly after his marriage, he bought a 10-acre estate outside Peekskill and settled down to live the good life. He planted the customary number of petunias, and on Saturday afternoons he and his lady would attend the local ball park and root politely for the home team. On the one occasion when his spouse forgot herself and hollered, "Kill the umpire!" he frowned and cautioned her to use more temperate language.

As a young bum, Mr. G. had been a pigeon fancier, but when he became a country squire, he shifted his interest to turkeys. Not ordinary turkeys, but white ones which had been hatched from pedigreed eggs and gobbled with a New England accent. And his love for the birds was no affectation—he fed them himself, clipped their toenails, and never retired to his Chippendale bed without first inspecting the coops to make sure his pets were warm and comfy.

Naturally enough, the birds returned his affections, and at the sound of his footfall, a great gobbledegook would go up, and the air would be filled with fluttering white shapes hurrying to meet their benefactor. This, of course, warmed the cockles of Mr. G.'s peanut-sized heart.

Everything went along fine until Thanksgiving. Then, on the night before the festive board was scheduled to groan, Mrs. G. handed her husband a shiny ax and said, "Pick out a plump one and we'll have it for dinner tomorrow."

"Ya mean kill one a my own boids?" asked the murder mogul.

"A turkey is a turkey," said Mrs. G. rationally.

"How could I do setcha t'ing?" said the gang chief.

"With this ax," said his wife.

"I godda bedda idea," said the man who had made several undertakers rich. "I'll use chloroform—id'll be more humane. Get da cook an' meet me at da coops."

It was all over in a few minutes. As the trio entered the enclosure, one of Mr. G.'s prize turkeys ran toward him. The cook, a heavyset Hannah with no feeling for fowl, grabbed it and held on while Mr. G. wrapped a chloroform-soaked handkerchief around the bird's beak. There was a feeble fluttering of feathers, a last throaty gobble, and the betrayed bird went limp. The cook quickly plucked it and put it in the meat and poultry compartment of the four-door Frigidaire.

Spine-chilling shrieks, as they say in the thrillers, awoke Mr. G. the next morning. Rushing downstairs, he found his wife in the kitchen trying to revive the cook. This poor lady, it appeared, had received the shock of her life. All set to dress the bird, she had approached the Frigidaire. But no sooner had she opened the door when the nude turkey made a stately and dignified entrance into the room. The chloroform had worn off, and the cold had apparently revived the gobbler. Finding the back door open, the turkey had tottered out into the yard.

Following his wife's finger, Mr. G. went outside. Hearing his step, the abused bird came running toward him, flapping its pitiful stumps of wings. Mr. G. took a frightened step back. In his long career of wholesale violence, this was the nearest thing to a ghost he had ever encountered.

Then great tears welled in Mr G.'s eyes. In no time at all, the turkey was ensconced in an invalid's bed, and a hastily summoned veterinary was feeling its pulse and heartbeat.

But the strain had been too much. As the family and hired help made a mourners' circle around the bedside, the unfrocked fowl gave up the ghost—this time for good. Mr. G. sadly drew a sheet over the body.

His wife, however, was more practical. "We'll have it for dinner," she said.

"I wouldn't advise eating this bird," said the vet. "It died of double pneumonia. . . ."

Only one incident remains to be told in this tragic tale. In our society, we kill thousands of animals in the stockyards daily, but let a college boy swallow one live goldfish and the S.P.C.A. is in a tizzy. Reason: The goldfish is a pet. Well, it seems that the tender treatment accorded the turkey had raised it to the pet status, and when the vet reported the strange events leading to its demise, a great hue and cry was raised among the fiercer members of the local S.P.C.A. One of them swore out a warrant for Mr. G.'s arrest, and for the first time in a long and dishonorable career, the gangster's name appeared on a police blotter.

"I oney got what wuz comin' ta me," he told his wife after he had paid his $10 fine. "A guy who kills hiz own toikey ain't fitta associate wit' decent people."

Jewish Fund Goal $57,000

The goal for this year's drive of the Jewish Welfare Fund in Western Maryland has been set at $57,000, it has been announced by Irving Rosenbaum, chairman of the budget committee.

Maurice Milburg, general chairman of the local drive, which includes Allegany and Garrett Counties and nearby communities in West Virginia, has announced that the drive will open October 10 as a part of the nation-wide United Jewish Appeal for $250,000,000.

The money is used for the relief, rehabilitation and resettlement of displaced and distressed Jews in Europe, for the settlement and economic upbuilding of the new State of Israel and for aid to refugees arriving in the United States, Milburg said.

Milburg pointed out that the United States, which admitted 25,000 Jewish refugees last year, is giving haven to additional thousands in 1948 for whom funds are needed. The UJA is also charged with providing for the more than 40,000 Jewish children of varying ages whose care, education and vocation training is a major factor in the ultimate reconstruction of Jewish life abroad, Milburg explained.

Other members of the local committee include Paul Baral, George Ossip and Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson. Former Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., is general chairman of the United Jewish Appeal campaign.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

Billy Rose

Quite some columns back, I cited the case of a gangster who raised pigeons as a hobby, and who, when forced to get rid of his flock, strangled 400 birds because he was afraid another owner might mistreat them.

My favorite story of punks and their pets, however, concerns a prominent Man of Extinction who shall hereafter be referred to as Mr. G., inasmuch as he is alive and allergic to publicity.

Back in the days when gin plus caramel coloring equaled Scotch, Mr. G. was one of our high priests of homicide, and the way I heard it, he had attained this eminence by the simple expedient of marrying the boss's daughter and then machine-gunning the boss.

Mr. G., like many a moneyed mobster, had pretentions to respectability, and shortly after his marriage, he bought a 10-acre estate outside Peekskill and settled down to live the good life. He planted the customary number of petunias, and on Saturday afternoons he and his lady would attend the local ball park and root politely for the home team. By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 26 (INS)—Robert Taylor takes off for England on the Queen Mary Oct. 16 to co-star in "The Conspirator" with Elizabeth Taylor. Arthur Hornblow, their producer, goes along with them for what should be an unusually interesting movie experience.

They will work at Elstree, which is probably the best equipped studio in England. Director Victor Saville, already in London, has lined up a complete British cast to support them.

I heard rumblings for some time that Bob, who is 100 per cent patriotic, had been elected to play the traitor, but it wasn't until today that it was verified. It is a meaty role, and the sort of thing Bob has been wanting to do ever since he got out of the Navy.

Some of that cash Larry Parks received from Columbia, when he settled his battle with them, goes into a new independent company. He, Betty Garrett (Mrs. Parks) and Louis Mandel, of New York, have just formed the Louis Mandel Productions.

Mandel, who has been a friend of the Parks for years and is their lawyer and business manager, is now arranging for Larry's first movie after he finishes "Jolson Sings Again."

MGM will be asked to lend Betty to play opposite her husband, who is the sole male star in the new company.

Jack Warner, after seeing "Fountainhead," decided to team them again. As I said, this story of naval operations will not get going for a while because Mr. Cooper has taken himself and his guns to Colorado, and other points in the wild, to recuperate and get himself rested.

The denial Lana Turner made when I asked her over the long-distance telephone if she is going to give up her movie career, could have been heard from here to New York and back again.

"Certainly not!" she said. "I worked too hard to be foolish enough to throw my career out the window. But the important thing in my life now is my baby. Bob and I are living very quietly in Greenwich, and are going to stay here until the baby is born."

Topping comes into $4,000,000 in a few months and Lana doesn't have to worry, for the first time in her life, about money.

Chatter in Hollywood: Greer Garson's divorce from Richard Ney became final Saturday. Everyone in our town is asking the same question—is Greer going to marry the rich Texan, Buddy Fogelson, or isn't she?

He is devoted to her and she never goes anywhere with any other escort. Buddy's friends, who have known him for many years, among them Charles Wrightsman, say he is a wonderful person.

I have just heard from New York that June Duprez, who was first brought to this country for "Thief of Bagdad," is marrying George Moffat, Jr., of corn products, next week. June has known Moffat for a long time, but she couldn't marry him until her tangled matrimonial troubles with Charles Boone Smith were straightened out.

Here is our chance to agree, or disagree, with an expert. Andre Kostelanetz was asked by Columbia Records to select the most popular movie songs during the last 10 years, the maestro lists.

"September Song" from "Knickerbocker Holiday"

"It's a Grand Night for Singing" ("State Fair")

"Sweet Leilani" ("Waikiki Wedding")

"Thanks for the Memory" ("Big Broadcast")

"Carioca" ("Flying Down to Rio")

"Foggy Day in London" ("Damsel in Distress")

"Sweet and Lovely" ("Two Girls and a Sailor")

"I'll Take Romance" ("I'll Take Romance")

Jimmy Stewart is in New York, and while he is in the east Peter Lawford has been squiring Gloria Hatrick McLean about town.

Same evening Pat Di Cicco at the same place with Gloria De Haven, who certainly gets around. She goes to New York in a week.

Diana Lynn celebrated her new contract by having a dinner date with Architect John Lindsay. Since that time they've had a date every day, and it looks as if the youthful actress is in love again.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Charter Group To Meet Tonight

The Cumberland Charter Commission, now in the stage of making subcommittee reports to the general group, will meet in the Mayor's Office in the City Hall at 7:30 p. m. today.

Isaac Hirsch, chairman, has provided each member with a copy of the charter adopted by Saginaw, Mich., reportedly the shortest charter on record.

Currently under study are the subjects of finance, personnel and elections. Although the commission unanimously favors home rule, three forms of government are still under consideration. They are the present commissioon form, the strong mayor form, and the manager-council plan.

The commission hopes to have a new charter ready for submission to the Mayor and Council before the end of the year so that it may be presented to the General Assembly, which meets in January.

Baering Down On The News

Movement in France to have Marcel Cerdan form a cabinet. He might get one that would last over a round.

Henry just wiped off one of those plates last Wednesday. He finished with his usual 48 caliber caviar. If Harry Truman is looking for a glutton of special privilege why not kibitz Hankus?

Two more of those dinners and Hankus will have his admirers bidding for the spots on his vest.

Why doesn't Hankus Wallace migrate over there as a citizen of one world? Before leaving he might wise us up on one bit of etiquette overlooked by Emily Post. At a $100-a-plate dinner what's drinking out of the saucer worth?

PE Will Sell New Securities

The Potomac Edison Company will additional securities to provide necessary funds for a construction program that President R. Paul Smith termed the greatest in the company's history.

At a meeting in Frederick, Smith told directors that PE's 1948 and 1949 cash requirements would have to be increased by the sale of additional securities to finance the project which includes a new power plant at Riverton, W. Va.

Among the reasons given by the company for its historic construction project are the numerous new homes being erected in areas served by PE and its subsidiaries and the rapid increase of customers who are using electrical equipment in their homes.

Also noted at the meeting was a new 24-hour production high for the company. Smith explained that 2,852,300 kwh were generated representing a seven per cent increase over the old record.

HOLLYWOOD

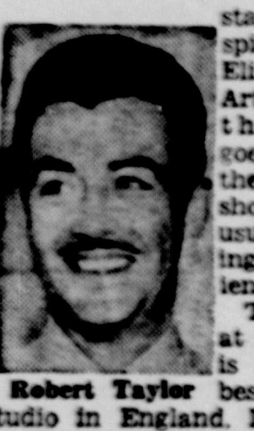
By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 26 (INS)—Robert Taylor takes off for England on the Queen Mary Oct. 16 to co-star in "The Conspirator" with Elizabeth Taylor. Arthur Hornblow, their producer, goes along with them for what should be an unusually interesting movie experience.



Robert Taylor

They will work at Elstree, which is probably the best equipped studio in England. Director Victor Saville, already in London, has lined up a complete British cast to support them.

I heard rumblings for some time that Bob, who is 100 per cent patriotic, had been elected to play the traitor, but it wasn't until today that it was verified. It is a meaty role, and the sort of thing Bob has been wanting to do ever since he got out of the Navy.

Two Five-Rounders Head RAC Boxing Card

Folk And Senko, Goss And Zezza Tangle Tonight

Royale A.C. To Hold 11th Show At Armory

A pair of five-rounders, featuring Cumberland and Rankin, Pa., scrappers, will top the card tonight in the Royale Athletic Club's eleventh amateur boxing show since October 28, 1946, at the State Armory.

In one of the headliners Jimmie Folk, Meyersdale, Pa., high school lad, who has been fighting under the R.A.C. banner since last March, will swap punches with Joey Senko, welterweight representative of the Roy Athletic Club, of Rankin.

Goss Opposes Zezza

Bobby Goss, local flyweight ace, will collide with Nick Zegga of Rankin, in the other half of the double windup.

Folk scored his 12th triumph in 15 amateur starts last Monday night at the armory when he belted out Joe Dunne, of the Merrick Boys' Club, Washington, D. C., in two heats, after a terrific slugfest. Tonight's match will be the second five-rounder of Folk's meteoric career. On September 10 he outpointed Carl Baer, Coalport, Pa., in a five-round thriller at Jaffa Mosque, Altoona, Pa.

JIM FOLK'S RECORD

Lost to Donnie Chambers, Frostburg.
Decisioned Russell Bean, Cumberland.
Decisioned Donnie Chambers at Frostburg.
Decisioned Jack Koelker, Cumberland.
Decisioned Carl "Lefty" Smith, Homewood A. C., Pittsburgh.
Decisioned Frankie Bewack, Portage, Pa.
Decisioned Vince Frate, Baltimore, at Frederick, Md.
Decisioned Ray Pratt, Portage, Pa.

Lost to Carl Baer, Coalport, Pa., at Johnstown.
Decisioned Johnny Britton, Indiana, Pa., at Johnstown.
Decisioned Carl Baer, Coalport, Pa., at Altoona.

Goss, who was too ill to appear on last week's card here, will be gunning for his 19th ring triumph tonight when he battles Zezza. Bobby has won 18 out of 25 matches and his last appearance in a local ring was on June 21 when he whipped John Choby, of Windber, Pa. He has copped three of his last four matches, two via the knockout route.

The Prelims

Other matches on tonight's program, all set for three rounds or less, include:

Another bout will be added to complete the program of seven matches.

Mauk's 11th Show

Presley W. "Red" Mauk is the matchmaker for tonight's card. He promoted two shows in 1946, five in 1947 and three early this year.

Jack Rorick or Jim Kelley will be the referee with John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh as official timer and Nelson W. Russler, announcer.

Amvets Cop Deciding Game From Shallmar

OAKLAND, Md., Sept. 26 — Bob Glaze tossed a four-hitter and struck out 13 batsmen today as the Oakland Amvets defeated Shallmar by the score of 11-1 in the third and deciding game of their playoff series in the Upper Potomac Baseball League.

The victory advanced Oakland to the finals and earned the locals the right to battle the winner of the Crellin-Kitzmiller series which is still "up in the air" as a result of a protest.

Oakland expressed the hope that Crellin and Kitzmiller straighten out their difficulties before the weather is too cold to play baseball.

Kimble's double cheated Glaze out of a shutout victory in the ninth inning of today's contest. The other hits yielded by the Oakland ace were singles by Burgess, Finch and Rodeheaver.

Ted James and Dick Wolfe paced the Amvets' 14-hit attack. James collected two doubles and a single and Wolfe rapped three singles. The score:

Two Five-Rounders Head RAC Boxing Card

Royale A.C. To Hold 11th Show At Armory

A pair of five-rounders, featuring Cumberland and Rankin, Pa., scrappers, will top the card tonight in the Royale Athletic Club's eleventh amateur boxing show since October 28, 1946, at the State Armory.

In one of the headliners Jimmie Folk, Meyersdale, Pa., high school lad, who has been fighting under the R.A.C. banner since last March, will swap punches with Joey Senko, welterweight representative of the Roy Athletic Club, of Rankin.

Goss Opposes Zezza

Bobby Goss, local flyweight ace, will collide with Nick Zegga of Rankin, in the other half of the double windup.

Folk scored his 12th triumph in 15 amateur starts last Monday night at the armory when he belted out Joe Dunne, of the Merrick Boys' Club, Washington, D. C., in two heats, after a terrific slugfest. Tonight's match will be the second five-rounder of Folk's meteoric career. On September 10 he outpointed Carl Baer, Coalport, Pa., in a five-round thriller at Jaffa Mosque, Altoona, Pa.

JIM FOLK'S RECORD

Lost to Donnie Chambers, Frostburg.
Decisioned Russell Bean, Cumberland.

Decisioned Carl Baer, Coalport, Pa., at Altoona.

Goss, who was too ill to appear on last week's card here, will be gunning for his 19th ring triumph tonight when he battles Zezza. Bobby has won 18 out of 25 matches and his last appearance in a local ring was on June 21 when he whipped John Choby, of Windber, Pa. He has copped three of his last four matches, two via the knockout route.

The Prelims

Other matches on tonight's program, all set for three rounds or less, include:

Another bout will be added to complete the program of seven matches.

Mauk's 11th Show

Presley W. "Red" Mauk is the matchmaker for tonight's card. He promoted two shows in 1946, five in 1947 and three early this year.

Jack Rorick or Jim Kelley will be the referee with John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh as official timer and Nelson W. Russler, announcer.

Amvets Cop Deciding Game From Shallmar

OAKLAND, Md., Sept. 26 — Bob Glaze tossed a four-hitter and struck out 13 batsmen today as the Oakland Amvets defeated Shallmar by the score of 11-1 in the third and deciding game of their playoff series in the Upper Potomac Baseball League.

The victory advanced Oakland to the finals and earned the locals the right to battle the winner of the Crellin-Kitzmiller series which is still "up in the air" as a result of a protest.

Oakland expressed the hope that Crellin and Kitzmiller straighten out their difficulties before the weather is too cold to play baseball.

Kimble's double cheated Glaze out of a shutout victory in the ninth inning of today's contest. The other hits yielded by the Oakland ace were singles by Burgess, Finch and Rodeheaver.

Ted James and Dick Wolfe paced the Amvets' 14-hit attack. James collected two doubles and a single and Wolfe rapped three singles. The score:

Fort Cumberland Post Defeats Moorefield, 9-4

Norman Geatz Beats Yeider, Evens Series

Five Runs In First Frame Decide Game

A five-run outburst in the opening frame proved too much of a handicap for the Moorefield American Legion to overcome and Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, of Cumberland, won the second game of the Interstate Baseball League's playoff series yesterday at Moorefield, W. Va., by the score of 9-4.

Moorefield won the toss after yesterday's game and the third and deciding contest will be played there next Sunday at 3 p. m.

Geatz Squares Accounts

Norman Geatz, who suffered his first loss in ten starts this season in last Sunday' game which Moorefield won, 9-5, went the route for Fort Cumberland to gain the decision over Marshall Yeider who copped the series opener. Geatz gave up nine hits, including a double and triple by Bob Keller, who batted in two runs, and was accorded faultless support by his teammates.

Manager Bill Bracey opened the game by working Yeider for a pass and moved to second on Elmer Freeland's sacrifice. Eddie Diehl drove in the first run with a triple and came home on Gaffney's single. Gaffney scored later on Yeider's wild pitch. After Pence flied out Cecil singled and registered the fourth tally on Jack Kauffman's two-base wallop. Charley Cumiskey's base knock sent Kauffman over the platter with what proved to be the deciding tally.

Keller Hits Timely Double

Moorefield made two runs in the opening stanza on singles by George Hott and Seymour followed by Keller's timely two-bagger. The home team added two more in the seventh when Keller tripled, "Tack" Clark singled, Warden Hott walked and Bill Vetter singled.

YANKS TRIM BOSTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (INS)—Tempestuous Tommy Byrne, the Yankees' scattershot southpaw, won his first 1948 game from a first division team here today—and he chose the pennant-coveting Boston Red Sox as his victims.

His victory, achieved by the ample margin of 6-2, made a few alterations in the vivid American League pennant race. It dumped the Red Sox out of their first place tie, for the Cleveland Indians boomed on against the Tigers and now lead the linked Yanks and Red Sox by a full game.

Byrne's win today, before a stadium mob of 69,755—which swelled the seasons home attendance to a stunning 2,412,206—gave the Yanks a 2-1 edge in this critical weekend series. The two clubs close their 1948 rivalry next Saturday and Sunday at Boston. The Yankee triumph today was the team's eighth in the 20 games it has played against Joe McCarthy's club. Box:

Boston Braves Clinch Flag By Turning Back Giants, 3-2

Bob Elliott's 3-Run Homer Settles Issue

BOSTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—The Boston Braves clinched their first National League pennant since 1914 today when they nipped the New York Giants 3-2, on Bob Elliott's three-run homer in the first inning.

The Tribesmen now are six games ahead of the second place Brooklyn Dodgers. The Brooklyn club has but five more games to play.

The happy 31,172 crowd that came for the kill saw it apparently wrapped up for starter Vern Bickford in the very first inning when Bob (Mr. Team) Elliott lashed his 22nd homer after Tommy Holmes and Al Dark had singled against righthander Larry Jansen.

After that terrific send-off Vern Bickford, the Boston starter, kept the Giants blanked wih only two hits until the eighth when the New Yorkers did all their scoring.

Nels Potter then replaced Bickford and Yvars countered before the former could retire the Giants by forcing three of them to ground to the infield.

Then the canny Potter thrilled the nervous crowd by setting down Johnny Mize, Willard Marshall and Mueller in order in the ninth.

Jansen settled down after his wobbly start and handcuffed the Braves until he gave way to pinch hitter Lonnie Frey with two on and none out in the eighth.

Since their last pennant success in 1914, the Braves have seen all seven of their league rivals win it least once. But their current manager, Billy Southworth, has suffered no such championship famine. This is his fourth championship team in seven years. The first three were with the St. Louis Cardinals, who won two world series for him. Box:

Clement tied the score 7-7 near the end of the first quarter when he carried the ball over from the Redskins' 28 and then kicked the extra point. In the next period, Clement passed to Halfback Joe Glamp from the Redskins' 28 for a touchdown.

Saturday afternoon on the Garlitz courts Middlekamp advanced to finals by eliminating Lua Syckes, 6-2, 6-2.

Men's doubles, and mixed doubles are yet to be completed in the county tournament. Mrs. Ralph Higgins last week won the women's singles.

City Loop All-Stars Win Pair, 6-3 And 10-0

In the nightcap Allan Sheetz tossed a four-hitter and fanned six in blanking the R. C. aggregation. Sheetz also led the attack with three singles while George Geatz had two hits.

The game was marked by an aerial duel staged by Frankie Albert of the winners and George (The Kid) Ratterman, quarterbacking the losers. Both tailbacks brought the crowd to its feet by hurling passes that at times zoomed through the air to a distance of 60 yards.

Grimes' Balk Decides Long Playoff Game

Westvaco Cops Series Lead, Hoffner Fans 18

A balk with the bases full provided the winning tally in the 13th inning as the Westvaco Club edged the Queen City Brewers yesterday at Westernport by the score of 4-3 to take a 2 to 1 lead in the best-of-seven games series for the championship of the Bi-State Baseball League.

With one away in the 13th, "Bud" Mosser singled to center. George Pattison, batting for Elmer Marsh, singled to left, sending Mosser to third. Bill McProuty walked to fill the bases. With the count one and one on Frank Patrone, pinch-hitting for Hoffner, Cecil Grimes, Queen City hurler, appeared as though he was going to deliver the ball to the batter then wheeled around and threw to third in an attempt to nip Mosser, who scampered back to the bag. A balk was called on Grimes and Mosser was waved home with the winning run. The three umpires agreed that the Queen City pitcher had balked.

Hoffner Strikes Out 18

Lynn Hoffner, who lost the opener of the series, 1-0, when he issued a pass with the bases full in the first inning, was the victor in yesterday's contest. He pitched the full 13 innings, scattering seven hits and whiffing 18 and struck out the side in the second and third innings.

"Squire" Holsinger started on the hillock for Queen City but gave way to Grimes in the third after yielding six hits and two runs in 2⅓ frames. After Westvaco knotted the score at 3-3 in the fifth, Hoffner and Grimes pitched shutout ball until the 13th.

The Brewers scored their first run in the opening heat when "Buck" Cowher's outfield fly scored Lou Baker from third base. Manager Charley Doyle's aggregation made it 3-0 in the second by scoring twice after Perlozzo and Cage fanned. Holsinger walked and came home on Baker's two base wallop. Later Baker tallied on Crecenze's infield hit.

Inskeep's Hit Ties Score

Westvaco counted in the second on hits by Robertson and Marsh coupled with an error by Cowher on McProuty's grounder. Doubles by Forrest High and "Pete" Deremer accounted for the second run in the third. The Papermakers tied it up at 3-all in the 5th on High's second two-bagger, Deremer's sacrifice and "Pepper" Inskeep's single.

Queen City was outhit 13 to 7 in yesterday's game. High, Deremer, Inskeep and Robertson banged out two hits each for the victors while Baker and Miles each hit safely twice for the Brewers.

The Papermakers won Saturday's game at Stitcher Field by the score of 13-7 to square the series at one-all.

Arrangements for the fourth contest of the series will be made this week. Box:

Fort Cumberland Post Defeats Moorefield, 9-4

Five Runs In First Frame Decide Game

A five-run outburst in the opening frame proved too much of a handicap for the Moorefield American Legion to overcome and Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, of Cumberland, won the second game of the Interstate Baseball League's playoff series yesterday at Moorefield, W. Va., by the score of 9-4.

Moorefield won the toss after yesterday's game and the third and deciding contest will be played there next Sunday at 3 p. m.

Geatz Squares Accounts

Norman Geatz, who suffered his first loss in ten starts this season in last Sunday' game which Moorefield won, 9-5, went the route for Fort Cumberland to gain the decision over Marshall Yeider who copped the series opener. Geatz gave up nine hits, including a double and triple by Bob Keller, who batted in two runs, and was accorded faultless support by his teammates.

Manager Bill Bracey opened the game by working Yeider for a pass and moved to second on Elmer Freeland's sacrifice. Eddie Diehl drove in the first run with a triple and came home on Gaffney's single. Gaffney scored later on Yeider's wild pitch. After Pence flied out Cecil singled and registered the fourth tally on Jack Kauffman's two-base wallop. Charley Cumiskey's base knock sent Kauffman over the platter with what proved to be the deciding tally.

Keller Hits Timely Double

Moorefield made two runs in the opening stanza on singles by George Hott and Seymour followed by Keller's timely two-bagger. The home team added two more in the seventh when Keller tripled, "Tack" Clark singled, Warden Hott walked and Bill Vetter singled.

YANKS TRIM BOSTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (INS)—Tempestuous Tommy Byrne, the Yankees' scattershot southpaw, won his first 1948 game from a first division team here today—and he chose the pennant-coveting Boston Red Sox as his victims.

His victory, achieved by the ample margin of 6-2, made a few alterations in the vivid American League pennant race. It dumped the Red Sox out of their first place tie, for the Cleveland Indians boomed on against the Tigers and now lead the linked Yanks and Red Sox by a full game.

Byrne's win today, before a stadium mob of 69,755—which swelled the seasons home attendance to a stunning 2,412,206—gave the Yanks a 2-1 edge in this critical weekend series. The two clubs close their 1948 rivalry next Saturday and Sunday at Boston. The Yankee triumph today was the team's eighth in the 20 games it has played against Joe McCarthy's club. Box:

Bob Elliott's 3-Run Homer Settles Issue

BOSTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—The Boston Braves clinched their first National League pennant since 1914 today when they nipped the New York Giants 3-2, on Bob Elliott's three-run homer in the first inning.

The Tribesmen now are six games ahead of the second place Brooklyn Dodgers. The Brooklyn club has but five more games to play.

The happy 31,172 crowd that came for the kill saw it apparently wrapped up for starter Vern Bickford in the very first inning when Bob (Mr. Team) Elliott lashed his 22nd homer after Tommy Holmes and Al Dark had singled against righthander Larry Jansen.

After that terrific send-off Vern Bickford, the Boston starter, kept the Giants blanked wih only two hits until the eighth when the New Yorkers did all their scoring.

Nels Potter then replaced Bickford and Yvars countered before the former could retire the Giants by forcing three of them to ground to the infield.

Jansen settled down after his wobbly start and handcuffed the Braves until he gave way to pinch hitter Lonnie Frey with two on and none out in the eighth.

Since their last pennant success in 1914, the Braves have seen all seven of their league rivals win it least once. But their current manager, Billy Southworth, has suffered no such championship famine. This is his fourth championship team in seven years. The first three were with the St. Louis Cardinals, who won two world series for him. Box:

Clement tied the score 7-7 near the end of the first quarter when he carried the ball over from the Redskins' 28 and then kicked the extra point. In the next period, Clement passed to Halfback Joe Glamp from the Redskins' 28 for a touchdown.

Middlekamp Cops County Singles Title 3rd Time

Defeats Bernstein And Retires Trophy

Lawrence Middlekamp won the men's singles championship in the Allegany county tennis tournament yesterday by defeating Maurice Bernstein in the finals on The Dingle courts in straight sets, 6-4, 6-1.

This was the third local tournament this summer won by Middlekamp, and the third county tournament within the past four years, which gives him permanent possession of the three year Schwarzenbach trophy.

Saturday afternoon on the Garlitz courts Middlekamp advanced to finals by eliminating Lua Syckes, 6-2, 6-2.

City Loop All-Stars Win Pair, 6-3 And 10-0

City Softball League All-Stars proved their superiority over the Rocking Chair League's All-Stars by beating the latter in both ends of a doubleheader yesterday at Stitcher Field. The scores were 6-3 and 10-0.

Lou Riehl's two-run double and George Geatz's single in the fifth inning sewed up the first game in which Ed Decker yielded only two hits—a homer by Walter Hite and single by Don Knieriem. Vern Penner smacked a single and double for the winners.

In the nightcap Allan Sheetz tossed a four-hitter and fanned six in blanking the R. C. aggregation. Sheetz also led the attack with three singles while George Geatz had two hits.

The game was marked by an aerial duel staged by Frankie Albert of the winners and George (The Kid) Ratterman, quarterbacking the losers. Both tailbacks brought the crowd to its feet by hurling passes that at times zoomed through the air to a distance of 60 yards.

The Chicago Cards and the Los Angeles Rams, like the Bears, have each won one, lost none in league play.

Ed Sprinkle was the only Bear to score more than once, taking passes for two second-half counters. Previously, Johnny Lujack, Noah Mullins, George McAfee and Mike Holovak all had scored for Chicago and Fred Venturelli had booted a 13-yard field goal.

Grimes' Balk Decides Long Playoff Game

Westvaco Cops Series Lead, Hoffner Fans 18

A balk with the bases full provided the winning tally in the 13th inning as the Westvaco Club edged the Queen City Brewers yesterday at Westernport by the score of 4-3 to take a 2 to 1 lead in the best-of-seven games series for the championship of the Bi-State Baseball League.

With one away in the 13th, "Bud" Mosser singled to center. George Pattison, batting for Elmer Marsh, singled to left, sending Mosser to third. Bill McProuty walked to fill the bases. With the count one and one on Frank Patrone, pinch-hitting for Hoffner, Cecil Grimes, Queen City hurler, appeared as though he was going to deliver the ball to the batter then wheeled around and threw to third in an attempt to nip Mosser, who scampered back to the bag. A balk was called on Grimes and Mosser was waved home with the winning run. The three umpires agreed that the Queen City pitcher had balked.

Hoffner Strikes Out 18

Lynn Hoffner, who lost the opener of the series, 1-0, when he issued a pass with the bases full in the first inning, was the victor in yesterday's contest. He pitched the full 13 innings, scattering seven hits and whiffing 18 and struck out the side in the second and third innings.

"Squire" Holsinger started on the hillock for Queen City but gave way to Grimes in the third after yielding six hits and two runs in 2⅔ frames. After Westvaco knotted the score at 3-3 in the fifth, Hoffner and Grimes pitched shutout ball until the 13th.

The Brewers scored their first run in the opening heat when "Buck" Cowher's outfield fly scored Lou Baker from third base. Manager Charley Doyle's aggregation made it 3-0 in the second by scoring twice after Perlozzo and Cage fanned. Holsinger walked and came home on Baker's two base wallop. Later Baker tallied on Crecenze's infield hit.

Inskeep's Hit Ties Score

Westvaco counted in the second on hits by Robertson and Marsh coupled with an error by Cowher on McProuty's grounder. Doubles by Forrest High and "Pete" Deremer accounted for the second run in the third. The Papermakers tied it up at 3-all in the 5th on High's second two-bagger, Deremer's sacrifice and "Pepper" Inskeep's single.

Queen City was outhit 13 to 7 in yesterday's game. High, Deremer, Inskeep and Robertson banged out two hits each for the victors while Baker and Miles each hit safely twice for the Brewers.

Arrangements for the fourth contest of the series will be made this week. Box:

MIRROR Of Your MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Can you feel affection for someone you don't love?

Answer: You can feel that way toward someone you are not "in love with," but love and affection are essentially the same thing except that one word lays stress on one side of a complex feeling and the other refers mainly to another. You may prefer to call the way you feel about somebody "affection" because love sounds silly and romantic, or because you feel you have no right to love him. But if you are happy when you're with him and unhappy when you're not, your feeling is love, no matter how little can be done about it.

Answer: Most children are taught to read that way, but it has serious disadvantages, says Dr. G. T. Buswell in the Elementary School Journal. For one thing, it gets a child into the habit of speaking the words "under his breath" when he reads to himself, which slows his reading seriously, for another, it makes him more conscious of the sound of words than of what they mean. Students in the University of Chicago Adult Reading Clinic as well as in public schools read more than twice as fast after they had been taught silent reading.

Answer: Of course not, although the fear of being thought so keeps thousands of men and women from getting relief of which they are in desperate need. Psychiatrists do treat insane people—and quite often cure them— but the majority of their patients are not only sane, but often brilliant and successful — artists, writers, and business executives, for instance. They need and find help because they suffer from conflicting feelings and desires which they cannot "straighten out" because they neither recognize nor understand them.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

"Everything is movin' too fast."

But not fast enough for Paul Mantz, the Hollywood flier, who just won the Bendix Aviation Cup for the third time running when he averaged 447.98 miles an hour.

He's been flying for years. In fact when he was four years old, they made him bring the plane down for an hour every afternoon so he could learn how to walk.

As a little tot you could always tell he was interested in aviation. He was the only kid on the block who referred to his mother as "The Control Tower."

They had a little trouble with him when he got old enough to enter school. Every time the teacher tried to make him stay after class, he parachuted out of the window.

Of course, now that he's a big racing pilot, everybody wants to ask him how it feels to go so fast. But they can't catch him.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

There is a desperate scramble among radio personalities—at least those on the East Coast—to prepare themselves for visibility. Consequently, we who own television sets are beginning to see everything in double focus, a rather stupefying experience. You hear a man one night on the radio; the next night you see him, usually equipped with the same jokes, on television. This is hard on the performers and not much easier on the listeners.

Take Milton Berle—and it's almost impossible to avoid taking him these days—as an example. Berle has returned apparently for keeps to Texaco Star Theater, one of the brighter spots on NBC's East Coast television network. (NBC, 8 p. m. EST Tuesdays). Berle has also bobbed up again with a revised version of his radio show on ABC the following night. (Wednesdays 9 p. m. EST). To confuse every one thoroughly, this too is called Texaco Star Theater. The content and general air of both radio and television shows are almost and, of course, the television Berle is identifical with the radio Berle, there being only so much Berle to spread around. In spite of these similarities, the visible Berle is enormously funny and the invisible Berle just isn't.

John Crosby

On television, a full hour show, Berle is up to his hips in comedians, acrobats, performing dogs, singers, ballroom dancers and magicians. In theory—and only in theory—it is Berle's job to introduce the other clowns and get out of the way. Berle, however, has other ideas. He exchanges jokes with the comedians, gets pitched around by the acrobats, barks at the dogs, makes passes at the singers and, in general, propels these old vaudeville acts in directions which, I'm sure, they weren't originally intended to travel. It's probably an unsettling experience to the other hired hands, but the audience, including this small segment of it, finds it very entertaining.

On his radio show, Berle behaves pretty much the same way, though, of course, to a somewhat different cast of characters, dogs, magicians and dancers having no special aptitude for radio. On his latest radio show, Berle found time to play a female football coach which afforded him the opportunity to make a crack about running around Mabel's end; he sang a commercial for Texaco; he told a joke about a girl with two heads ("You were a brilliant student, Cynthia, and why not? Two heads are better than one. I could never tell which one has the Toni."); he was on the receiving end of the normal quota of insults from his announcer, Frank Gallup ("I'm selling gas."—"You should be taking it."); and he participated in an interminable sketch with his little monster of a son played by Arnold Stang.

You certainly can't say he didn't try hard and in spite of it all, he wasn't very funny. Mr. B., I guess, has to be seen to be appreciated. This is a deplorable situation since Berle's TV audience is probably about one-tenth his radio audience. In time, of course, the situation will reverse itself, provided Berle, burning his candle at both ends this way, hasn't long since guttered out.

"Candid Microphone," which I spoke of a couple of days ago, has also invaded television, not very successfully. It's a lot harder to trap people in front of a movie camera than to get them to talk unsuspectingly into a microphone. About all the television version of candid mike provides is a cleaner picture of Allan Funt, the mad genius who dreamed up this program. He's a pop-eyed individual with thinning hair, a toothy smile and dark circles under his eyes, conceivably the result of pestering people into saying something interesting into his microphone. If the TV program lasts very long, Funt's face will be so familiar than any one in his right mind will clam up and take to his heels the moment it appears which, on the whole, might just as well.

On television, a full hour show, Berle is up to his hips in comedians, acrobats, performing dogs, singers, ballroom dancers and magicians. In theory—and only in theory—it is Berle's job to introduce the other clowns and get out of the way. Berle, however, has other ideas. It's probably an unsettling experience to the other hired hands, but the audience, including this small segment of it, finds it very entertaining.

On his radio show, Berle behaves pretty much the same way, though, of course, to a somewhat different cast of characters, dogs, magicians and dancers having no special aptitude for radio. On his latest radio show, Berle found time to play a female football coach which afforded him the opportunity to make a crack about running around Mabel's end; he sang a commercial for Texaco; he told a joke about a girl with two heads ("You were a brilliant student, Cynthia, and why not? Two heads are better than one. I could never tell which one has the Toni."); he was on the receiving end of the normal quota of insults from his announcer, Frank Gallup ("I'm selling gas."—"You should be taking it."); and he participated in an interminable sketch with his little monster of a son played by Arnold Stang.

You certainly can't say he didn't try hard and in spite of it all, he wasn't very funny. Mr. B., I guess, has to be seen to be appreciated. This is a deplorable situation since Berle's TV audience is probably about one-tenth his radio audience. In time, of course, the situation will reverse itself, provided Berle, burning his candle at both ends this way, hasn't long since guttered out.

"Candid Microphone," which I spoke of a couple of days ago, has also invaded television, not very successfully. It's a lot harder to trap people in front of a movie camera than to get them to talk unsuspectingly into a microphone. About all the television version of candid mike provides is a cleaner picture of Allan Funt, the mad genius who dreamed up this program. He's a pop-eyed individual with thinning hair, a toothy smile and dark circles under his eyes, conceivably the result of pestering people into saying something interesting into his microphone. If the TV program lasts very long, Funt's face will be so familiar than any one in his right mind will clam up and take to his heels the moment it appears which, on the whole, might just as well.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our loving husband, son, and father, William McK. Schramm, who passed away one year ago today, Sept. 26, 1947.

Dear Bill, that you were called away
We often sit and think of you,
No eyes to see us weep,
But deep within our aching hearts,
Your memory we shall keep.
Many years, we spent together,
How sweet their memory still;
Wife, Mother and Children.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our loving husband, son, and father, William McK. Schramm, who passed away one year ago today, Sept. 26, 1947.

Just one year ago today,
Dear Bill, that you were called away
We often sit and think of you,
No eyes to see us weep,
But deep within our aching hearts,
Your memory we shall keep.
Many years, we spent together,
How sweet their memory still;

LaVale Water Plans Outlined

The LaVale Civic Improvement Association has announced it is taking steps to form a more closely-knit community organization, to raise money and to take definite action toward solving some of the section's problems.

Five committees are being organized and members will tour the area in an effort to raise funds. Letters have been mailed to residents to explain the situation to them.

Leaders in the movement say there are several ways of financing improvements once they actually are started. In regard to water a rental figure high enough to meet carrying and maintenance charges could be levied in addition to a tappage fee.

Many LaVale residents claim the need for a better sewer system is just as acute as the water problem. Financing for a sewer could be accomplished by charging property owners on a frontage basis.

Another finance possibility would be created if an official sanitary district would be established. Under this plan the Board of Allegany County Commissioners would have power to levy a special tax against LaVale residents for expenditure in their own area.

Voters in the district approved the sanitary district plan in an election a few months ago, but the legality of the election was attacked and the Circuit Court ruled out the results. The case is now before the Court of Appeals.

Plans whereby the present four water systems could be improved to a point to meet all needs have about been abandoned and instead serious consideration is being given to obtaining water from either Frostburg or Cumberland. Currently the Frostburg plan appears the most feasible.

Second Murder, Suicide Verdict Given In 7 Weeks

Elbin Dies 19 Hours After Shooting Wife

Allegany County authorities gave the second suicide-murder verdict within seven weeks when Charles Ralph Elbin, 36, died in Memorial Hospital Saturday at 8:30 p. m. from self inflicted wounds 19 hours after fatally shooting his wife at their Gilpintown home.

Dr. H. V. Deming who on August 18 termed the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leo Bridges, near Mt. Savage, a suicide-murder as the result of a family quarrel, yesterday issued a similar verdict in the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Elbin.

Saturday's dual tragedy was attributed to an argument over Elbin's drinking, according to First Sgt. W. E. O'Hara, of the State Police, who said the unemployed World War II veteran fatally shot his wife, the former Hazel Miller, with a .32 caliber pistol and then turned the weapon on himself.

Authorities set the time of the shooting at 1:30 a. m. Saturday, but said it was not reported until 7:30 a. m. when Hubert R. Davis, 15, Mrs. Elbin's son by a previous marriage, heard his stepfather moaning and found the pair lying on the kitchen floor.

Quoting neighbors in the Cilpintown area, near Flintstone, police said Elbin and his wife began quarreling about midnight shortly after she returned from work on the night shift at the Celanese plant.

Dr. Deming said Mrs. Elbin died instantly from a wound in the right side of the head. The husband was taken to the hospital where he remained in an unconscious state until he died. He was also wounded in the head, authorities said.

Investigators said they were informed that the couple had quarreled previously over Elbin's drinking and that on several occasions he had threatened to kill both his wife and stepson.

The August suicide-murder occurred in Slabtown where, according to authorities, Bridges shot his wife shortly after she got out of an automobile. He then turned the gun on himself, police said.

Mrs. Elbin, a native of the Oldtown section, is survived by two brothers, Paul E. Miller, Baltimore, and H. Claude Miller, Oldtown, a sister, Mrs. Stanley Gift, New Windsor, and her son.

Elbin was born in Bedford County, Pa. Surviving him are his mother, Mrs. Willie F. Elbin; four brothers, Kelly and Marshal Elbin, Artemas, Pa.; Fred R. Elbin, Warfordsburg, Pa., and Wade Elbin, Syracuse, N. Y., and three sisters, Mrs. Grace Glingerman, Flintstone; Mrs. Ruth Layman, Baltimore, and Mrs. Ralph Shipley, this city.

A service for Elbin will be held Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. in Fairview Christian Church. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

A service for Mrs. Elbin will be conducted Tuesday at 2 p. m. in Oldtown Methodist Church. The body will remain at the George Funeral home until time for the service. Interment will be in Mount Tabor Cemetery.

LaVale Water Plans Outlined

The LaVale Civic Improvement Association has announced it is taking steps to form a more closely-knit community organization, to raise money and to take definite action toward solving some of the section's problems.

Five committees are being organized and members will tour the area in an effort to raise funds. Letters have been mailed to residents to explain the situation to them.

Included in the program are a centralized, improved water system and a sewer system.

Leaders in the movement say there are several ways of financing improvements once they actually are started. In regard to water a rental figure high enough to meet carrying and maintenance charges could be levied in addition to a tappage fee.

Many LaVale residents claim the need for a better sewer system is just as acute as the water problem. Financing for a sewer could be accomplished by charging property owners on a frontage basis.

Another finance possibility would be created if an official sanitary district would be established. Under this plan the Board of Allegany County Commissioners would have power to levy a special tax against LaVale residents for expenditure in their own area.

Voters in the district approved the sanitary district plan in an election a few months ago, but the legality of the election was attacked and the Circuit Court ruled out the results. The case is now before the Court of Appeals.

Plans whereby the present four water systems could be improved to a point to meet all needs have about been abandoned and instead serious consideration is being given to obtaining water from either Frostburg or Cumberland. Currently the Frostburg plan appears the most feasible.

Second Murder, Suicide Verdict Given In 7 Weeks

Elbin Dies 19 Hours After Shooting Wife

Allegany County authorities gave the second suicide-murder verdict within seven weeks when Charles Ralph Elbin, 36, died in Memorial Hospital Saturday at 8:30 p. m. from self inflicted wounds 19 hours after fatally shooting his wife at their Gilpintown home.

Dr. H. V. Deming who on August 18 termed the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leo Bridges, near Mt. Savage, a suicide-murder as the result of a family quarrel, yesterday issued a similar verdict in the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Elbin.

Saturday's dual tragedy was attributed to an argument over Elbin's drinking, according to First Sgt. W. E. O'Hara, of the State Police, who said the unemployed World War II veteran fatally shot his wife, the former Hazel Miller, with a .32 caliber pistol and then turned the weapon on himself.

Authorities set the time of the shooting at 1:30 a. m. Saturday, but said it was not reported until 7:30 a. m. when Hubert R. Davis, 15, Mrs. Elbin's son by a previous marriage, heard his stepfather moaning and found the pair lying on the kitchen floor.

Quoting neighbors in the Gilpintown area, near Flintstone, police said Elbin and his wife began quarreling about midnight shortly after she returned from work on the night shift at the Celanese plant.

Dr. Deming said Mrs. Elbin died instantly from a wound in the right side of the head. The husband was taken to the hospital where he remained in an unconscious state until he died. He was also wounded in the head, authorities said.

Investigators said they were informed that the couple had quarreled previously over Elbin's drinking and that on several occasions he had threatened to kill both his wife and stepson.

The August suicide-murder occurred in Slabtown where, according to authorities, Bridges shot his wife shortly after she got out of an automobile. He then turned the gun on himself, police said.

Mrs. Elbin, a native of the Oldtown section, is survived by two brothers, Paul E. Miller, Baltimore, and H. Claude Miller, Oldtown, a sister, Mrs. Stanley Gift, New Windsor, and her son.

Elbin was born in Bedford County, Pa. Surviving him are his mother, Mrs. Willie F. Elbin; four brothers, Kelly and Marshal Elbin, Artemas, Pa.; Fred R. Elbin, Warfordsburg, Pa., and Wade Elbin, Syracuse, N. Y., and three sisters, Mrs. Grace Glingerman, Flintstone; Mrs. Ruth Layman, Baltimore, and Mrs. Ralph Shipley, this city.

A service for Elbin will be held Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. in Fairview Christian Church. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

A service for Mrs. Elbin will be conducted Tuesday at 2 p. m. in Oldtown Methodist Church. The body will remain at the George Funeral home until time for the service. Interment will be in Mount Tabor Cemetery.

Federal Recognition Of Area Resources Sought

Cumberland Study To Be Revealed Oct. 4

Plans to attract federal recognition of Western Maryland's natural industrial advantages were discussed yesterday at a Mountain District American Legion Committee meeting attended by Cumberland's Industrial Promotion Commission and Rep. J. Glenn Beall (R-Md 6th).

Rep. Beall presented information needed by the two groups to outline Allegany-Garrett County advantages for the federal board and Howard M. Smith, commission member, announced that a study of Cumberland area advantages will be revealed October 4.

There are already several hundred industries seeking federal aid to locate areas for new operations, Rep. Beall told members of the Legion and city groups at the Frostburg meeting.

Atomic Danger Minimized

He declared industry is now seeking to scatter its plants especially in mountainous terrain where atomic bomb danger is minimized in case of an aggressive attack on the Unied States.

Terming Western Maryland ideal in many respects, Rep. Beall told the two groups that once the data reaches the federal unit he will make every effort to get favorable board reports to the industries.

Smith and Commissioner William H. Buchholtz, also a commission member, met with the Legion committee to explain the city organization's work in compiling industrial advantage information and later addressed a membership meeting of the Mountain District.

It was at the Legion meeting that Smith revealed that the commission's work of eight weeks in compiling data on the Cumberland area will be announced at a meeting October 4 in City Hall.

Rep. Beall gave the two groups a prepared copy of the federal board's esential requirement in natural advantages and instructed members that any brouchure must first be presented to the State Industrial Planning Board, which in turn gives it to the federal body.

Can Meet Many Requirements

The industries are seeking to locate in or near communities with populations of between 10,000 and 50,000, Rep. Beall declared, explaining that Western Maryland communities would well suit that and many other requirements.

The Mountain District later heard a report from Patrick J. Carroll, chairman of its Veterans' Employment Committee, on progress and appointed a full committee to continue work.

In addition, Leslie J. Clark, of James P. Love Post, American Legion, Lonaconing, was appointed to contact municipal governments of all in corporated communities in Western Maryland to invite them to join the work of the Legion and Cumberland Commission.

The area is suitable for many small industries now seeking locations, the committee members explained, and work by the municipal government in connection with groups already working could do much to relieve unemployment in the area.

The Weather

But, at least, it didn't fulfill the frost promise that the overnight low of 37 gave. The temperature was 49 degrees last night but Cumberlanders are promised another clear, golden day to cheer up blue Monday.

School Lunch Program Stressed During National Youth Month

Maryland's school lunch program is receiving particular attention during September as education officials throughout the United States observe National Youth Month.

An adequate school lunch, officials explained, can contribute significantly to the good nutrition and abounding health needed by students who are embarking on a new term of education.

In addition to health benefits, sharp improvement in behavior and learning has been noted as a result of the hot lunch program conducted in the state. Table manners and cleanliness are stimulated by the way the program is carried out.

The national school lunch program in Maryland operates through the State Board of Education under an agreement with the United States Department of Agriculture. The program in private schools is administered by the northeast area office of the Production and Marketing Administration's food distribution program's branch.

The Federal government reimburses participating schools for part of the costs of the program, with the balance of the funds coming from sources within the state.

Among the foods currently being allocated to Maryland are dried milk powder, canned tomatoes, tomato paste, potatoes, dried fruits, honey, concentrated orange juice, dried eggs, canned applesauce, canned sliced apples, and certain seasonal fruits and vegetables.

According to a preliminary survey of last year's school lunch distribution, Maryland schools received over 4,000,000 pounds of apples, cabbage, dried eggs, potatoes, sweet potatoes, shelled walnuts, dried fruit, cheese, dried milk powder, peanut butter and canned tomatoes, as well as over 130 thousand gallons of grapefruit juice, concentrated orange juice and tomato juice.

Cigaret Found In Mine Where Blast Killed 3

Bureau Of Mines Reports Evidence

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—An unlighted cigaret, found in a gas-filled room, gave possible evidence today of the cause of a Maryland mine disaster that killed three men August 14.

A Bureau of Mines report on an explosion of methane gas at the No. 5 mine of the Georges Creek Coal Company, Inc., near Lonaconing, said one unlighted cigaret was found in the room where the explosion occurred.

The inspectors found also that an electric arc from an open-type locomotive might have ignited gas which had accumulated in an unworked section of the mine.

The inspectors said the explosion occurred 10 minutes after the main ventilating fan—usually in 24 hour operation—had been halted for measurements for a drive-belt guard. Their report added:

"The company's rules forbid smoking underground, but matches and cigarets which were observed in the mine indicate that smoking may have been practiced."

The three men, killed in the explosion, all assistant foremen, were George Loar, Dan's Mountain; Bernard Smith, Zilhman, and Robert Dodds, Detmold.

Mine officials said the trio had reported to the mine to rock-dust on Saturday because the operation is usually closed over the weekend.

Reburial Program Is Nearing Close

The Army announced yesterday that all of the temporary military cemeteries overseas in which 273,762 armed forces dead of World War II were buried will have been completely evacuated by the end of November.

The remains of all military personnel to be returned to the United States for final burial, in accordance with the wishes of their bereaved families, will have been placed in the heremetically sealed steel caskets being used by the Army and will be held under military guard awaiting shipping facilities for their return home. Among those being held are some 16,000 armed forces dead whose next of kin have failed to express their desires by completing the form which was sent to them by the office of the Quartermaster General in Washington.

According to Brig. Gen. Kester L. Hastings, newly-appointed chief of the Memorial Division, Office of the Quartermaster General, there will have been returned to this country by September 30 for final burial the remains of 81,500 men and women who died overseas in World War II. Gen. Hastings further stated that by December 31, the Army will have returned to this country approximately 113,000 war dead. He stated that this would leave approximately 37,000 additional remains to be returned. These figures approximate a total of 150,000 or 54 per cent of the total remains which have been recovered and temporarily buried by the Army search and recovery teams working in the field.

While Congress when it passed the law for the return and final burial of World War II dead estimated it would take five years, the Army expects to complete the task in a much shorter period of time. Because of the progress made to date, and in the interest of considerable savings in operational costs, the Army has decided to discontinue six of the 12 distribution centers now being used. The six to be discontinued are those located at Schenectady, N. Y.; Charlotte, N. C.; Memphis, Tenn.; Ogden, Utah; Kansas City, Mo.; and the distribution center at the Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot. These six centers will not receive any remains after approximately mid-November of this year.

Taxi Driver Held After Collision

A Rockville, Md., taxicab driver, who started to work Friday morning and ended up in a property damage accident in Cumberland Saturday is out of a job, police assumed yesterday.

Maryland State Police said Earl Cooley is being held in Allegany County Jail on charges of unauthorized use of the cab and reckless driving. They added that a "stolen" report was received on the cab just before it was reported in an accident on Oldtown Road Saturday at 4 p. m.

Authorities did not identify the other driver but said damage to both vehicles was minor. Cooley told police that he began working for the Rockville cab company Friday morning and drove to Cumberland Friday night instead of turning the cab in.

Two local motorists also posted $10 bonds on careless driving charges as the result of an accident Saturday at the intersection of Fayette and North Johnson Streets in which a woman was injured.

Mrs. Caroline King, 413 Washington Street, received treatment at Memorial Hospital for bruises suffered when a car driven by Robert M. King, 204 Washington Street, in which she was riding, collided with one operated by Charles Edward Mills, Bowling Green.

The drivers will be given hearings this morning in Police Court.

CLINGING VINE--This sweet potato vine, a freak plant, grown by J. E. Smith, 1120 Shade's Lane, became a little too enthusiastic about being interviewed and ended up trying to give News Reporter Pat Fullerton a "potato eye" view of its unusual growth. The seven and a half foot long vine has a stem 2 and ¾ inches wide, between 15 and 20 times wider than it should be. It was found by Miss Verna Rudolph, 614 Baltimore Avenue, a Smith's Garden employe, when the sweet potatoes were being turned to keep them from rooting in the ground. Smith decided the maverick wasn't putting its mind to the business of growing potatoes, anyway, so he dug it up to confront the News staff. He said that never in his lifetime of potato growing has he seen anything like it. The average sweet potato vine is about an eighth or a fourth of an inch wide. Vaugely discernible in the foreground is a typewriter, which although a good and reliable machine ordinarily, doesn't take well to strange vines. Miss Fullerton wants to know if this experience qualifies her to be "Miss Overgrown Sweet Potato Vine of 1948."

U. S. Geological Survey To Finish Remapping Garrett County Soon

The U. S. Geological Survey will complete the remapping of Garrett County as soon as possible, it was announced in the recently-published Fourth Annual Report of the Maryland Board of Natural Resources.

The project was discontinued due to rapidly increasing costs which caused the funds allocated for the project for the biennium to be consumed before the work could be completed, the report explained.

The Geological Survey, the report stated, has arranged to complete the mapping with no additional cost to the state above the original estimate of $12,500 annually during the four years of 1945 to 1949.

Included in the project will be the remapping of Allegany County and all that part of Washington County west of Longitude 78 degrees.

The report also said the U. S. Bureau of Mines deposited with the Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources in open file the results of the 26 exploratory core drill holes in the Georges Creek Basin, pending the publication of the results by the mine bureau, which is preparing a comprehensive report on the coal resources in the basin.

The Bureau of Mines, the report added, began exploratory core drilling in Castleman Basin with two drills in June, on an appropriation of $60,000.

The report added that an investigation of the fire clays in Western Maryland under a co-operative agreement with the Geological Survey was continued in the field in the Georges Creek and Castleman basins until the end of August.

It was pointed out that the coal drilling by the Bureau of Mines was equally valuable for the clay investigation, so the personnel of the clay investigation have co-operated with the drilling workers in the logging of cores.

The report added that Dr. T. W. Amsden of Johns Hopkins University was employed by the state organization to expedite the investigation. It was pointed out that Dr. Amsden will be valuable in the compilation of the carboniferous systematic report.

Ten observation wells for recording fluctuations of ground water levels have been set up in Western Maryland, the report said. Three permits for the utilization of ground water were issued to Garrett County concerns. These concerns used a total daily average of 94,800 gallons.

Kauffman May Be Named To Board

FREDERICK, Sept. 26 (AP)—Governor Lane has been sent a second recommendation by the State Junior Chamber of Commerce that he appoint a commission to survey the state government with a view to improving its operation and organization.

About 35 state Jaycee directors and local officers met yesterday and renewed the resolution to the Governor. It appended a suggestion that the propose dcommission utilize the University of Maryland's Department of Government and Politics in making the survey.

The department already has made municipal surveys of Cumberland, Hagerstown and Dundalk.

Governor Lane replied about two weeks ago to the first recommendation sent by the Jaycees. He said he was "happy to report that I propose to do this."

Adult Education Classes To Open

Night classes in Allegany County's adult education program are scheduled to get underway October 5, with registration dates set for Tuesday and Thursday this week in four communities, according to J. D. Lonholm, director of adult education.

Registration will be held from 7 to 9 p. m. on the two nights at Fort Hill High School, Beall High School, Frostburg; Central High School, lonaconing; and Bruce High School, Westernport.

Among the new courses planned for the winter term are primary photography and ceramics. Other academic and cultural subjects will be offered as in previous years, according to the director.

Wastepaper Drive Begins Today

The monthly wastepaper drive will begin today with pickups at LaVale, Potomac Park, Bowling Green, Bedford Road from Nave's Crossroad to State Line, and Baltimore Pike to Miller's Service Station.

County's 775 Polling Places Open At 9 A. M.

Tuesday will be one of the last two chances Allegany County citizens will have to register for the presidential election November 2, when a congressional representative from this district will also be selected.

The county's 75 registration places will open at 9 a. m. and register all eligible persons until 9 p. m. with the second registration day set for October 5, according to Patrick F. King, clerk of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors.

While the bulk of the registration will probably consist of persons reaching their majority before November 2, much of the work is expected to include persons who have been stricken from the books for failure to vote in the past five years.

King said all persons who have taken out declarations of intentions, on or before November 2, 1947, are eligible to register and vote in the general election as well as all persons who reach the age of 21 on or before November 2.

He explained that any person who has not voted in a national, state or county election since 1942 has been stricken from the registration books and must re-register again either Tuesday or Octor 5 to be eligible to vote November 2.

Since the primary election in the county concerned only Democratic contestants, observers predicted a heavy Republican registration on the two days by virtue of the fact that G.O.P. interest did not crystalize in the primary.

They also pointed out that the Congressional contest in this district will also bring out a heavy registration, and said many men who returned from service after the last presidential election will probably be registering to vote in the national contest.

Work of revising the election books will be done October 12, when "dead wood" will be removed.

Persons planning to vote will register in the district where they will cast their vote on November 2.

Baylor Chairman Of AP Association

CAMBRIDGE, Md., Sept. 26 (AP)—C. Neill Baylor, general manager of the Hagerstown Herald and Mail, was elected chairman of the Chesapeake Association of the Associated Press yesterday at its annual meeting here.

The Associated held its business meeting after its members arrived here from Annapolis aboard the state yacht Potomac. There they were the guests of Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., at Government House.

One of the problems the newspaper editors and publishers discussed was the exchange of news with Associated Press member papers in Pennsylvania and Delaware.

Last night the newspapermen were guests of the Cambridge Banner and the Salisbury Times at the Cambridge Country Club and the Cambridge Yacht Club. Speakers at the dinner at the country club included Baylor, Mayor Julian Tubman and Ted Smits, general sports editor of the Associated Press from New York.

Child Burned While Playing With Matches

Pauline Leona Emerick, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Verdie Emerick, Fairhope, Pa., was admitted to Allegany Hospital at about 2:30 p. m. yesterday for treatment of second and third degree burns.

The child was playing with matches at her home and her clothes ignited. She was reported resting comfortably.

An eight-year-old Ridgeley, W. Va., youth, Gary Sharpless, fell from his bicycle, suffering a severe scalp laceration and abrasions of the left arm and foot. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Sharpless, he was admitted to Allegany Hospital at about 6:30 p. m. Attaches said he was sleeping last night and in fair condition.

TO BE REBUILT-- Shown above is the 113-year-old bridge on Route 40 at Long which will be completely rebuilt soon. G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, said last night that the bridge will not be closed to traffic while the bridge is being rebuilt. He explaned that the span would be built in two half-sections and added that one-way traffic may be necessary. Work has already been started, and Chaires said he expects the project to be completed this season. He pointed out that the span, built in 1835, was one of the original bridges on the National Road.

Food Preparation Will Be Shown At Times-News Cooking School!

Housewives attending the Food Festival School of Cookery beginning tomorrow at the Strand Theatre will not be confronted with a maze of theory, but will actually see the foods discussed prepared on the stage.

The school, sponsored by the Times-News papers as a public service for the fourth time, will be conducted by Miss Edalene Stohr, nationally known home economist and member of the staff of the National Livestock and Meat Board. The theatre doors will open at 8:45 a. m. and the actual sessions will begin at 9:15 a. m. Tuesday through Friday.

Each of the four days will be devoted to specific subjects. There will be lessons in economy relative to food buying in the ideas presented. Ways of avoiding monotony without sacrificing nutrition in meal planning will be emphasized.

Miss Stohr, a home economics graduate of Iowa State College, emphasizes with homemakers and persons in all walks of life she finds an increasing interest in better ways of nutrition.

"No longer are homemakers interested only in the quantity of the foods to serve daily on their tables," she says. "They are interested in foods which supply liberal amounts of proteins, vitamins and minerals. For this reason we are going to stress meal planning from the standpoint of providing an adequate diet for every member of the family."

In line with this idea, Miss Stohr will present to the women of Cumberland several results of the research of her own organization, the National Livestock and Meat Board. Particularly, they will learn of the importance of meat as a source of necessary food elements.

This research has shown that meat ranks high in protein, vitamin, mineral, iron and phosphorous content. Formerly, it was considered to be a poor source of vitamins.

Federal Recognition Of Area Resources Sought

Cumberland Study To Be Revealed Oct. 4

Plans to attract federal recognition of Western Maryland's natural industrial advantages were discussed yesterday at a Mountain District American Legion Committee meeting attended by Cumberland's Industrial Promotion Commission and Rep. J. Glenn Beall (R-Md 6th).

Rep. Beall presented information needed by the two groups to outline Allegany-Garrett County advantages for the federal board and Howard M. Smith, commission member, announced that a study of Cumberland area advantages will be revealed October 4.

There are already several hundred industries seeking federal aid to locate areas for new operations, Rep. Beall told members of the Legion and city groups at the Frostburg meeting.

Atomic Danger Minimized

He declared industry is now seeking to scatter its plants especially in mountainous terrain where atomic bomb danger is minimized in case of an aggressive attack on the Unied States.

Terming Western Maryland ideal in many respects, Rep. Beall told the two groups that once the data reaches the federal unit he will make every effort to get favorable board reports to the industries.

Smith and Commissioner William H. Buchholtz, also a commission member, met with the Legion committee to explain the city organization's work in compiling industrial advantage information and later addressed a membership meeting of the Mountain District.

It was at the Legion meeting that Smith revealed that the commission's work of eight weeks in compiling data on the Cumberland area will be announced at a meeting October 4 in City Hall.

Rep. Beall gave the two groups a prepared copy of the federal board's esential requirement in natural advantages and instructed members that any brouchure must first be presented to the State Industrial Planning Board, which in turn gives it to the federal body.

Can Meet Many Requirements

The industries are seeking to locate in or near communities with populations of between 10,000 and 50,000, Rep. Beall declared, explaining that Western Maryland communities would well suit that and many other requirements.

The Mountain District later heard a report from Patrick J. Carroll, chairman of its Veterans' Employment Committee, on progress and appointed a full committee to continue work.

In addition, Leslie J. Clark, of James P. Love Post, American Legion, Lonaconing, was appointed to contact municipal governments of all in corporated communities in Western Maryland to invite them to join the work of the Legion and Cumberland Commission.

The area is suitable for many small industries now seeking locations, the committee members explained, and work by the municipal government in connection with groups already working could do much to relieve unemployment in the area.

Two-Alarm Fire Burns Tracter-Trailer Here

A tractor-trailer was badly burned by flames which firemen said resulted from a short circuit in the wiring yesterday at 10:32 a. m. at the intersection of Franklin and Madison Streets.

Firemen from Central and East Side answered the call and said the driver, A. J. Preston, had parked the empty vehicle when it burst into flames.

National Guard Planes Circle Cumberland

About 20 National Guard attack bombers and fighters circled Cumberland several times yesterday afternoon, but officials at the Municipal Airport said the ships did not land.

The planes, A-26s and F-47s, "buzzed" the airport several times, it was reported. They were believed to have come from Baltimore on a training flight.

The Weather

Yesterday was a beautiful day for doing nothing but basking in the sunshine even though the thermometer didn't go above 71. But, at least, it didn't fulfill the frost promise that the overnight low of 37 gave. The temperature was 49 degrees last night but Cumberlanders are promised another clear, golden day to cheer up blue Monday.

RETIRES—Miss Margaret May Hepburn, Potomac Edison Company employe and veteran of 31 years' service as a utility company cashier in Lonaconing, will retire October 1.

All of the meetings, to be held in the Fifth Regiment Armory, will be open to the public.

Cigaret Found In Mine Where Blast Killed 3

Bureau Of Mines Reports Evidence

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—An unlighted cigaret, found in a gas-filled room, gave possible evidence today of the cause of a Maryland mine disaster that killed three men August 14.

A Bureau of Mines report on an explosion of methane gas at the No. 5 mine of the Georges Creek Coal Company, Inc., near Lonaconing, said one unlighted cigaret was found in the room where the explosion occurred.

And near the body of one of the victims, the inspectors said, lay a pack of the same brand of smokes with one cigaret missing.

The inspectors found also that an electric arc from an open-type locomotive might have ignited gas which had accumulated in an unworked section of the mine.

Three mine officials had entered the section to rock-dust it—a measure designed to prevent or limit explosions.

The inspectors said the explosion occurred 10 minutes after the main ventilating fan—usually in 24 hour operation—had been halted for measurements for a drive-belt guard. Their report added:

"The company's rules forbid smoking underground, but matches and cigarets which were observed in the mine indicate that smoking may have been practiced."

The three men, killed in the explosion, all assistant foremen, were George Loar, Dan's Mountain; Bernard Smith, Zilhman, and Robert Dodds, Detmold.

Mine officials said the trio had reported to the mine to rock-dust on Saturday because the operation is usually closed over the weekend.

Reburial Program Is Nearing Close

The Army announced yesterday that all of the temporary military cemeteries overseas in which 273,762 armed forces dead of World War II were buried will have been completely evacuated by the end of November.

The remains of all military personnel to be returned to the United States for final burial, in accordance with the wishes of their bereaved families, will have been placed in the heremetically sealed steel caskets being used by the Army and will be held under military guard awaiting shipping facilities for their return home. Among those being held are some 16,000 armed forces dead whose next of kin have failed to express their desires by completing the form which was sent to them by the office of the Quartermaster General in Washington.

According to Brig. Gen. Kester L. Hastings, newly-appointed chief of the Memorial Division, Office of the Quartermaster General, there will have been returned to this country by September 30 for final burial the remains of 81,500 men and women who died overseas in World War II. Gen. Hastings further stated that by December 31, the Army will have returned to this country approximately 113,000 war dead. He stated that this would leave approximately 37,000 additional remains to be returned. These figures approximate a total of 150,000 or 54 per cent of the total remains which have been recovered and temporarily buried by the Army search and recovery teams working in the field.

While Congress when it passed the law for the return and final burial of World War II dead estimated it would take five years, the Army expects to complete the task in a much shorter period of time. Because of the progress made to date, and in the interest of considerable savings in operational costs, the Army has decided to discontinue six of the 12 distribution centers now being used. The six to be discontinued are those located at Schenectady, N. Y.; Charlotte, N. C.; Memphis, Tenn.; Ogden, Utah; Kansas City, Mo.; and the distribution center at the Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot. These six centers will not receive any remains after approximately mid-November of this year.

The Junior Baseball Committee, formerly headed by Ramey, will operate under Harry Sallada, Lonaconing Post, and Daniel P. Hershberger, Grantsville Post No. 214.

The Veteran's Employment Committee, appointed by the district group to aid unemployed veterans in the area, is headed by Patrick J. Carroll, Fort Cumberland Post, and includes the following:

Ramey instructed the post commanders to submit names of members to fill out the committees and asked for post outlines for the Armistice Day observance.

The department executive members of the Mountain District will attend a Department Executive Board meeting in Baltimore Sunday, October 3.

Taxi Driver Held After Collision

A Rockville, Md., taxicab driver, who started to work Friday morning and ended up in a property damage accident in Cumberland Saturday is out of a job, police assumed yesterday.

Maryland State Police said Earl Cooley is being held in Allegany County Jail on charges of unauthorized use of the cab and reckless driving. They added that a "stolen" report was received on the cab just before it was reported in an accident on Oldtown Road Saturday at 4 p. m.

Authorities did not identify the other driver but said damage to both vehicles was minor. Cooley told police that he began working for the Rockville cab company Friday morning and drove to Cumberland Friday night instead of turning the cab in.

Two local motorists also posted $10 bonds on careless driving charges as the result of an accident Saturday at the intersection of Fayette and North Johnson Streets in which a woman was injured.

Mrs. Caroline King, 413 Washington Street, received treatment at Memorial Hospital for bruises suffered when a car driven by Robert M. King, 204 Washington Street, in which she was riding, collided with one operated by Charles Edward Mills, Bowling Green.

The drivers will be given hearings this morning in Police Court.

CLINGING VINE--This sweet potato vine, a freak plant, grown by J. E. Smith, 1120 Shade's Lane, became a little too enthusiastic about being interviewed and ended up trying to give News Reporter Pat Fullerton a "potato eye" view of its unusual growth. The seven and a half foot long vine has a stem 2 and ¾ inches wide, between 15 and 20 times wider than it should be. It was found by Miss Verna Rudolph, 614 Baltimore Avenue, a Smith's Garden employe, when the sweet potatoes were being turned to keep them from rooting in the ground. Smith decided the maverick wasn't putting its mind to the business of growing potatoes, anyway, so he dug it up to confront the News staff. He said that never in his lifetime of potato growing has he seen anything like it. The average sweet potato vine is about an eighth or a fourth of an inch wide. Vaugely discernible in the foreground is a typewriter, which although a good and reliable machine ordinarily, doesn't take well to strange vines. Miss Fullerton wants to know if this experience qualifies her to be "Miss Overgrown Sweet Potato Vine of 1948."

1st Place Winners In Horse Show Receive $1,025

Miss Maryland Presents Prizes

A large crowd watched the more than 150 horses shown yesterday and Saturday, according to M. S. Heiskell, chairman. The prizes were awarded by Miss Juanita Lookabaugh, "Miss Maryland of 1948."

The $300 Walking Horse Stake was won by "Hall's Masterpiece," owned by M. T. Balling, Uniontown, Pa. That horse had also taken the Novice Walking Horse prize the day before. Mrs. W. F. McCahn, Everett, Pa., took second prize with her "Liberty Allen."

"Lady Alice," owned by Miss Lorraine Kenskey, Washington, Pa., won the $400 three-gaited stake class followed by "Sporting Jewell," owned by R. R. King, Pittsburgh, Pa., and "Rex Glenworth" owned by M. S. Heiskell, this city.

In the five-gaited saddle horse stake paying $125 for first prize, "My Sallie Peavine," owned by King and ridden by his daughter, Mrs. Mabel Wheitzel, Pittsburgh, took the blue ribbon. Second place was won by "Mercer's High Rhythm," owned by Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Darby, Pittsburgh, and "Redi for Action," owned by M. T. Balling, Uniontown, took third honors.

A Hagerstown woman, Miss Helen Horst, was the winner of the $200 Hunter and Jumper Stake with her "Golden Rule." Miss Horst entered six horses in the show and took several prizes in the two-day show. The second and third place winners in this class were "King Cole," owned by B. C. Cense, Uniontown, and "Black Tick," owned by Wapotomac Farms, Williamsport, Pa.

M. S. Heiskell's "Rex Glenworth" and "Mahogany Sweetheart" took first and third place respectively in the local three-gaited class. "Victor Glory," owned by E. J. Dolphin, this city, was second prize winner.

U. S. Geological Survey To Finish Remapping Garrett County Soon

The U. S. Geological Survey will complete the remapping of Garrett County as soon as possible, it was announced in the recently-published Fourth Annual Report of the Maryland Board of Natural Resources.

The project was discontinued due to rapidly increasing costs which caused the funds allocated for the project for the biennium to be consumed before the work could be completed, the report explained.

The Geological Survey, the report stated, has arranged to complete the mapping with no additional cost to the state above the original estimate of $12,500 annually during the four years of 1945 to 1949.

Included in the project will be the remapping of Allegany County and all that part of Washington County west of Longitude 78 degrees.

The report also said the U. S. Bureau of Mines deposited with the Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources in open file the results of the 26 exploratory core drill holes in the Georges Creek Basin, pending the publication of the results by the mine bureau, which is preparing a comprehensive report on the coal resources in the basin.

The Bureau of Mines, the report added, began exploratory core drilling in Castleman Basin with two drills in June, on an appropriation of $60,000.

The report added that an investigation of the fire clays in Western Maryland under a co-operative agreement with the Geological Survey was continued in the field in the Georges Creek and Castleman basins until the end of August.

It was pointed out that the coal drilling by the Bureau of Mines was equally valuable for the clay investigation, so the personnel of the clay investigation have co-operated with the drilling workers in the logging of cores.

The report added that Dr. T. W. Amsden of Johns Hopkins University was employed by the state organization to expedite the investigation. It was pointed out that Dr. Amsden will be valuable in the compilation of the carboniferous systematic report.

Ten observation wells for recording fluctuations of ground water levels have been set up in Western Maryland, the report said. Three permits for the utilization of ground water were issued to Garrett County concerns. These concerns used a total daily average of 94,800 gallons.

Kauffman May Be Named To Board

FREDERICK, Sept. 26 (AP)—Governor Lane has been sent a second recommendation by the State Junior Chamber of Commerce that he appoint a commission to survey the state government with a view to improving its operation and organization.

About 35 state Jaycee directors and local officers met yesterday and renewed the resolution to the Governor. It appended a suggestion that the propose dcommission utilize the University of Maryland's Department of Government and Politics in making the survey.

The department already has made municipal surveys of Cumberland, Hagerstown and Dundalk.

Governor Lane replied about two weeks ago to the first recommendation sent by the Jaycees. He said he was "happy to report that I propose to do this."

Adult Education Classes To Open

Night classes in Allegany County's adult education program are scheduled to get underway October 5, with registration dates set for Tuesday and Thursday this week in four communities, according to J. D. Lonholm, director of adult education.

Registration will be held from 7 to 9 p. m. on the two nights at Fort Hill High School, Beall High School, Frostburg; Central High School, lonaconing; and Bruce High School, Westernport.

Among the new courses planned for the winter term are primary photography and ceramics. Other academic and cultural subjects will be offered as in previous years, according to the director.

Wastepaper Drive Begins Today

The monthly wastepaper drive will begin today with pickups at LaVale, Potomac Park, Bowling Green, Bedford Road from Nave's Crossroad to State Line, and Baltimore Pike to Miller's Service Station.

County's 775 Polling Places Open At 9 A. M.

Tuesday will be one of the last two chances Allegany County citizens will have to register for the presidential election November 2, when a congressional representative from this district will also be selected.

The county's 75 registration places will open at 9 a. m. and register all eligible persons until 9 p. m. with the second registration day set for October 5, according to Patrick P. King, clerk of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors.

While the bulk of the registration will probably consist of persons reaching their majority before November 2, much of the work is expected to include persons who have been stricken from the books for failure to vote in the past five years.

King said all persons who have taken out declarations of intentions, on or before November 2, 1947, are eligible to register and vote in the general election as well as all persons who reach the age of 21 on or before November 2.

He explained that any person who has not voted in a national, state or county election since 1942 has been stricken from the registration books and must re-register again either Tuesday or Octor 5 to be eligible to vote November 2.

Since the primary election in the county concerned only Democratic contestants, observers predicted a heavy Republican registration on the two days by virtue of the fact that G.O.P. interest did not crystalize in the primary.

They also pointed out that the Congressional contest in this district will also bring out a heavy registration, and said many men who returned from service after the last presidential election will probably be registering to vote in the national contest.

Work of revising the election books will be done October 12, when "dead wood" will be removed.

Persons planning to vote will register in the district where they will cast their vote on November 2.

Baylor Chairman Of AP Association

CAMBRIDGE, Md., Sept. 26 (AP)—C. Neill Baylor, general manager of the Hagerstown Herald and Mail, was elected chairman of the Chesapeake Association of the Associated Press yesterday at its annual meeting here.

The Associated held its business meeting after its members arrived here from Annapolis aboard the state yacht Potomac. There they were the guests of Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., at Government House.

One of the problems the newspaper editors and publishers discussed was the exchange of news with Associated Press member papers in Pennsylvania and Delaware.

Last night the newspapermen were guests of the Cambridge Banner and the Salisbury Times at the Cambridge Country Club and the Cambridge Yacht Club. Speakers at the dinner at the country club included Baylor, Mayor Julian Tubman and Ted Smits, general sports editor of the Associated Press from New York.

School Lunch Program Stressed During National Youth Month

Maryland's school lunch program is receiving particular attention during September as education officials throughout the United States observe National Youth Month.

An adequate school lunch, officials explained, can contribute significantly to the good nutrition and abounding health needed by students who are embarking on a new term of education.

In addition to health benefits, sharp improvement in behavior and learning has been noted as a result of the hot lunch program conducted in the state. Table manners and cleanliness are stimulated by the way the program is carried out.

The national school lunch program in Maryland operates through the State Board of Education under an agreement with the United States Department of Agriculture. The program in private schools is administered by the northeast area office of the Production and Marketing Administration's food distribution program's branch.

The Federal government reimburses participating schools for part of the costs of the program, with the balance of the funds coming from sources within the state.

Among the foods currently being allocated to Maryland are dried milk powder, canned tomatoes, tomato paste, potatoes, dried fruits, honey, concentrated orange juice, dried eggs, canned applesauce, canned sliced apples, and certain seasonal fruits and vegetables.

According to a preliminary survey of last year's school lunch distribution, Maryland schools received over 4,000,000 pounds of apples, cabbage, dried eggs, potatoes, sweet potatoes, shelled walnuts, dried fruit, cheese, dried milk powder, peanut butter and canned tomatoes, as well as over 130 thousand gallons of grapefruit juice, concentrated orange juice and tomato juice.

TO BE REBUILT-- Shown above is the 113-year-old bridge on Route 40 at Long which will be completely rebuilt soon. G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, said last night that the bridge will not be closed to traffic while the bridge is being rebuilt. He explaned that the span would be built in two half-sections and added that one-way traffic may be necessary. Work has already been started, and Chaires said he expects the project to be completed this season. He pointed out that the span, built in 1835, was one of the original bridges on the National Road.

Food Preparation Will Be Shown At Times-News Cooking School

Housewives attending the Food Festival School of Cookery beginning tomorrow at the Strand Theatre will not be confronted with a maze of theory, but will actually see the foods discussed prepared on the stage.

The school, sponsored by the Times-News papers as a public service for the fourth time, will be conducted by Miss Edalene Stohr, nationally known home economist and member of the staff of the National Livestock and Meat Board. The theatre doors will open at 8:45 a. m. and the actual sessions will begin at 9:15 a. m. Tuesday through Friday.

Each of the four days will be devoted to specific subjects. There will be lessons in economy relative to food buying in the ideas presented. Ways of avoiding monotony without sacrificing nutrition in meal planning will be emphasized.

Miss Stohr, a home economics graduate of Iowa State College, emphasizes with homemakers and persons in all walks of life she finds an increasing interest in better ways of nutrition.

"No longer are homemakers interested only in the quantity of the foods to serve daily on their tables," she says. "They are interested in foods which supply liberal amounts of proteins, vitamins and minerals. For this reason we are going to stress meal planning from the standpoint of providing an adequate diet for every member of the family."

In line with this idea, Miss Stohr will present to the women of Cumberland several results of the research of her own organization, the National Livestock and Meat Board. Particularly, they will learn of the importance of meat as a source of necessary food elements.

This research has shown that meat ranks high in protein, vitamin, mineral, iron and phosphorous content. Formerly, it was considered to be a poor source of vitamins.
